THE SOCIAL GLASSES.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

There sat two glasses, filled to the brim,
On the rich man's table, rim to rim.
One was ruddy and red as blood,
And one was as clear as the crystal flood,
Said the glass of wine to his paler brother:
"Let's tell the tales of our lives to each other.
I can tell of banquet, and revel, and mirth.
And the proudest and grandest souls on earth
Fell under my touch, as tho' struck by blight,
For I was a King, and ruled in my might.
From the heads of kings I have torn the crown;
From the heights of fame I have hurled men down;
I have blasted many an honored name,
I have taken virtue and given shame;
I have tempted the youth with a sip—a taste,
And made of his life a barren waste.
Far greater than a king am I!
Or any army beneath the sky.
I have made the arm of the driver fail,
I have sent the train from the iron rail,
I have made good ships go down at sea,
And the shrieks of the lost were sweet to me;
For they said: 'Behold! how great you be—
Fame, power, wealth, genius before you fall,
For your might and rule are over all.
Ho! ho! pale brother," quoth the wine,
"Can you boast of deeds as great as mine?"
Said the water glass: "I cannot boast
Of a king dethroned, or murdered host;
But I can tell of a heart once sad
By my crystal drops made bright and glad,
Of thirsts I've quenched, and brows I've laved,
Of hands I've cooled, and souls I've saved.
I've leaped thro' the valley, dashed down the mountain,
Flowed the river, and played in the fountain:
Slept in the sunshine, and dropped from the sky,
Everywhere, gladdening the landscape and eye.
I have eased the hot forehead of fever and pain,
I have made the parched meadow grow fertile with grain;
I can tell of the powerful wheel of the mill
That ground out flour and turned at my will;
I can tell of manhood, debased by you,
Which I lifted up and crowned anew.
I cheer, I help, I strengthen and aid;
I gladden the heart of both man and maid;
I set the wine-chained captive free,
And all, yes all, are better for knowing me."
These are the tales they told each other,
The glass of wine and his paler brother:
As they sat together, filled to the brim,
On the rich man's table, rim to rim.

BURT. SADLER.

THE BLANKVILLE AFFAIR.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER,
BY T. C. HARBAUGH.

Aristotle Hobbs and J. Cæsar Dobson were at the head of two of the most prominent families of Blankville. They were neighbors, too, but a high and close board fence stood on the line that divided the respective premises. This is not at all remarkable, as a barrier of this kind had separated the two families from time immemorial.

The fence was so close that a blade of grass on the Dobson side of the house never got to delight the maws of the Spring chickens in the Hobbs gardens.

The two men were pardonably ambitious.

Each wanted to reach the Mayor's seat at the earliest practicable moment, and their efforts in that direction had for several seasons past given new life to Blankville. Hobbs was somewhat unscrupulous. He even went back several generations into the records of the Dobsons, and, with a heartlessness that had no excuse, dragged several family skeletons from closets not exactly burglar-proof.

On the other hand, Dobson, in pursuit of information to head off his opponent, secured some ante-campaign items concerning the Hobbses, and Blankville had a delightful time digesting some choice bits of family history. As a matter of course, the female department of the rival houses became interested in the campaign, and the peculiar fence mentioned at the outset of this history heard some elegant and emphatic English.

The war of the rivals reached its climax when Hobbs, in public, denounced Dobson as an "antiquated pachyderm." This was the straw which, metaphorically, broke the camel's back, and Dobson declared in the presence of his family that blood, and blood alone, should wipe out the insult.

"Think of it!" he exclaimed. "If I am a pachyderm—which I am not—what are you? Not the wife and the children of a Christian gentleman and a free-born American citizen, but the mate and the offspring of what?—I blush to name it—a pachyderm! I can't say that I know exactly what a pachyderm is, but I swear that I haven't a drop of the blood of that kind of a creature in my veins. My ancestors were respectable, and I defy anybody to find a pachyderm among them. I shall challenge the infamous wretch who would thus assail my honor, and the bloody field shall witness the blotting out of the insult. A pachyderm, forsooth! It is scandalous! A less insult than this has precipitated nations into war."

The Dobson household unanimously voted to uphold its head in his intention to challenge the defamer, and Dobson, after consultation with several of his friends, produced the following document:

BLANKVILLE, June 10, 188—.

A. HOBBS—Dishonored Sir: The villainous appellation which you this day fastened upon me in public demands instant and multitudinous satisfaction. I hereby brand you an imbecile parvenu, and refer you to my second, Nero Nobbs, Esq., who, with any person you designate (I trust you will name a gentleman), will arrange for the meeting. Fearlessly yours, J. CÆSAR DOBSON.

"That will show the fellow that I want blood, and he will doubtless quit the town at once!" remarked Dobson when he had re-read his effusion, and then he entrusted it to his friend Nobbs for immediate delivery.

Exactly one hour after the sending of the challenge Dobson was somewhat taken aback by the following reply:

BLANKVILLE, June 10, 188—.

J. C. DOBSON—Pigmy: Your challenge has been accepted with pleasure. The epithet "imbecile parvenu" falls from me like wooden shafts from steel armor. My only regret is that I have to meet an antiquated pachyderm, and not a high-minded gentleman. My second, Augustus Bangs, Esq., will inform yours that I have chosen shot guns at six paces. Eagerly thine, ARISTOTLE HOBBS.

LILLIAN NORDICA, GRAND-OPERA SINGER.

Dobson grew white in patches as he read this communication. The room seemed very close, and he raised the sash for air.

"Nobbs," he said to his best friend, "the heartless wretch expects to add murder to insult. He gleefully announces in substance that he is going gunning for pachyderms. My God! must I meet an imbecile parvenu like him on the field of honor?"

"I see no other outcome."

"Then hasten the hour!" cried Dobson, sinking into a chair. "Get me a gun that will annihilate at six paces! I want to blot this walking infamy from the face of the earth! If I am a pachyderm, which I know I am not, I'll show him that he's waked up the wrong animal."

At a meeting of the seconds of the forthcoming affair of honor, it was determined that the duel should take place by lantern light that night in a cut near town, in order that there would be no crowd of morbid sight-seers to disconcert the principles.

Dobson accepted the arrangements with glee, and repeated his determination to deprive the Hobbs household of its official head.

During the remainder of the day he busied himself trying to get at the definition of Hobbs' opprobrious epithet "antiquated pachyderm." If Hobbs knew, he took delight in adding injury to insult by keeping it locked in his bosom.

There was no dictionary in Blankville, and the oldest inhabitant, who is generally supposed to know everything, knew nothing at all about pachyderm. The person said he thought it alluded to the low origin of the Dobson family, but he wasn't certain, and young Jenkins, first home from college, said that megatherium and pachyderm were almost synonomous, but he didn't know what they meant.

Dobson was indefatigable in his efforts to discover the true import of the epithet, but without avail. He did not relinquish his labors until the sinking sun admonished him that it was time to prepare for the sanguinary encounter. We must say that the two seconds had done all in their power to patch up a truce between the rivals. Neither would yield an inch, and both declared that their honor had been impugned, and that nothing short of blood would satify them.

It was agreed that the seconds, with a surgeon, should repair alone to Possom Cut, the duelling ground, and there await the arrival of the principals. Dobson retired to the bosom of his family, while Hobbs rewrote his last will and testament in the seclusion of a garret chamber.

It was not a very merry party of three that went down through the ghoulish shadows of night to the fatal ground. One of the trio, Dobson's second, carried two double-barrelled shot-guns and a lot of fixed ammunition, and another member of the party, a professional-looking individual, bore a small leathern case, the very looks of which, cold and suggestive, were enough to make one's flesh creep. This person was Dr. Philander Emetick, the latest addition to Blankville's medical fraternity.

The trio reached the duelling ground and began to wait. Nobody came. After a while the doctor led off with some ghostly medical stories, which sent numerous icy chills through Mr. Nobbs' vitals, while young Bangs, the other second, expected to see a platoon of reanimated "stiffs" march through the cut.

An hour passed, but neither of the principals came. Several engines shrieked in the distance, and then all was still again. At last the three men ceased telling stories and began to speculate What had happened? Had the two rivals buried the hatchet? Had their families prevailed on them not to rush to certain death?

Nobbs said that he had left Dobson in a belligerent mood ready for the fray, like the war-horse in Job, and Bangs declared that Hobbs, when last seen, was in the same condition. The duel was not "off." Impossible! It had to be fought to the death, and that night, too.

The seconds and the surgeon waited another hour, when, by mutual agreement, Nobbs was sent back to see what had happened. He was met at his door by his wife who said that a telegram had just arrived for him. She mentioned incidentally, in the same breath, of course, that one had been delivered at Bangs' residence just across the street.

The two telegrams, when placed side by side, told the reason for the delay at the duelling-ground, and in order that the reader shall hear the whole truth about the sanguinary Blankville affair, we reproduce them, with two necessary foot-notes:

(THE TELEGRAM TO NOBBS.)

KINGSTON, June 10, 11 P. M.

The unexpected illness of my wife's aunt's cousin has called me to this place. I shall not return to Blankville, where I might be forced to shed the blood of a fellow-creature. Sooner than do this I will die a pachyderm in the fullest meaning of the term. J. CÆSAR DOBSON.

(THE TELEGRAM TO BANGS.)

DASHVILLE, 11 P. M.

Business of the utmost importance called me – ther at the last moment. I shall remain here where one is not expected to stand up before a light-triggered shotgun in the hands of an antiquated pachyderm (I use the term advisedly). I leave Dobson to his unlettered conscience.

ARISTOTLE HOBBS.

Such, reader, was the bloody Blankville affair.

WHEN WOMEN DANCED.

It is only within the past five hundred years that women have danced publicly with men. In Italy, however, as early as the thirteenth century promiscuous dancing was tolerated, although the Church sternly condemned the innovation as immodest and unbecoming, and it was not at all general. When Henry III of France visited Venice, early in the sixteenth century, there was a grand ball given in his honor, to which all the noble ladies of Venice were invited. Nothing could exceed the splendor of their dresses, and the incredible number of enormous pearls which they wore; but, whereas three hundred of them danced in the presence of the King, not one of them was assisted by a male partner. However, Sanudo, in that part of his diary in which he gives minute details of the progress of Lucrezia Borgia from Rome to Ferrara on the occasion of her marriage with her fourth husband, informs us that she was particularly fond of dancing the salta and the bosola. Thus he tells us on one occasion: "My lady Lucrezia, the bride, being dressed in the French style, in crimson satin, striped with fish-scales of beaten gold, each stripe being two fingers in breadth, and wearing on her head a coif of pearls of great price, danced the salta with the French Ambassador until it was time to attend the performance of the 'Miles Gloriosus' of Plautus.'" This salta is the original of our waltz, and was first introduced into these islands on the occasion of the marriage of Magdalene de Valois with James V of Scotland and gave terrible scandal to the pious folk of Edinburgh. The pretty young queen died a few days later, and her demise, which was really the result of consumption, was attributed to a celestial punishment upon her for the iniquity of having gyrated in this "naughty French dance." The salta was very popular at the Court of Henry VIII, and was quite as fashionable then as the waltz, with which it is identical, is at the present time. Possibly it was while dancing a salta or volta, as it was indiscriminately called, that this uxorious monarch fell in love with Anne Bullen.—Saturday Review.

WOULDN'T DO AT ALL.—"Why don't you wear your night-dress for a bathing suit?" inquired a mean old man of his lovely young wife.

"Because, my dear," she said archly, "it is altogether too high in the neck and comes down too far."

THE COUNT'S SECRET.

A French Romance by a Native-born American.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

CHAPTER I.

They were young, ardent, romantic, and they loved.

He, the Count Fromage De Brie, the haughty aristocrat.

She, Mary Ann Rafferty, daughter of Alderman Rafferty.

Oui!

(I believe that is the correct word at this point, but I am a little out of practice on French romances.)

The Count was descended from a very ancient family.

It was quite a descent.

Alderman Rafferty said that he was no account.

Mon Dieu!

Old man Rafferty was a self-made man.

By his own efforts he had risen from the lowly position of Coroner to that of Alderman.

He was feared and respected, and he was making big money.

Sacre bleu!

Mary Ann Rafferty was not beautiful.

Nor was she intellectual.

Yet the Count loved her.

Why?

Helas?

Why do we all love at some time or another?

I give it up.

CHAPTER II.

Alderman Rafferty at first refused to consent to his daughter's marriage with the Count Fromage de Brie.

Finally, however, he withdrew his objections.

Rapture!

(I do not know the French word for rapture, nor can I find it in the back of the dictionary.)

They were to be married in a few weeks.

How can I describe the happiness of the Count?

I don't think I can.

Parbleu!

CHAPTER III.

There was a mystery about the Count.

He was never visible to his betrothed during the day.

Nor could she learn how or where he spent his time.

When questioned on the subject he seemed annoyed.

What was the secret of the life of the Count Fromage de Brie?

Reader, I will put you onto it.

CHAPTER IV.

In the centre of a gilded salon, leaning negligently upon the back of a luxuriously-upholstered chair, stood the Count

There was a stern expression in his dark eyes; in his hand he clutched a glittering, keen-edged weapon.

Was he contemplating suicide?

Not exactly.

An elderly man, evidently somewhat under the influence of corn-juice, entered the room and threw himself into the chair beside which stood the Count.

"Give me a clane shave wid bay rum," he cried.

It was Alderman Rafferty.

The next moment his eyes met those of the Count.

With a wild cry he sprang from the chair.

"So Oi've found ye out at lasht, ye divil," he shouted.

"An' it's a barber, ye are! Now, be the powers, it's Muldoon Rafferty 'll tache ye a lisson."

The Alderman rolled up his sleeves.

There was fire in his eye.

And the Count?

He said nothing.

He fled.

Out into the cold, heartless world.

He has not yet returned.

But Rafferty is still looking for him.

Allons!

—PROSPER MAGUIRE and F. A. STEARNS.

HIS STOMACHIC GHOST.

It was a lovely day, and nature at the beach was in harmony with it in every respect. "The value of a Coney Island chowder is not sufficiently appreciated," casually remarked the Colonel, rapping the ashes from his cigar. "Four years ago, early in the Spring, I got a chowder here which has lasted me ever since. It was not a large chowder. I didn't notice it much until some hours later. Its perfume was savory, but in the condition of my receptive powers it suddenly occured to me as intensely disaggreeable. But I was engaged in conversation, and chowder was a secondary consideration. I ran along until there zigzagged across my unpeaceful soul a flash of trouble that was, as well, one of intense surprise; and for the next three hours I was the most miserable mortal this World ever saw."

"You should have taken blue fish," said the Major.

"The proprieties of clam chowder are known to all," said the Colonel. "The smell of it, or any particular dish of it, runs back to the beginning, and forward to the end of the world. As succulence for the memory it would make one recall the smell of all the disagreeable things one might or might not have heard or dreamed of. If there is anything that one wants to escape, a clam chowder will bring it to him. If he goes to the infernal regions and gets a clam chowder it will discount all the rest of the show. If he should find one in paradise it would drown the noise, put out the lights, extinguish the glory and give the whole concern the appearance of an extensive grave."

"Why didn't you have sea-bass," asked the Corporal.

"When the sun of that day went down," resumed the Colonel, "it sank into a sickish ooze of old, unseasoned, whitish-black, soupish-looking stuff, faintly broken with appearances of pink and green and black, that I suppose was called clam chowder, and after a long night of feverish dreams I awoke to the dreadful knowledge that I should carry that chowder with me to my grave. It is so. It is there yet. I never rise in the morning but I think of it. I frequently awaken at the stillest hours to feel that it is still there. I find some hours that might be devoted to some fleeting happiness, but the chowder holds its own. Talk of an afflicted conscience! Gad, sir! what is that in comparison with a stomach and a memory that will have to carry that clam chowder for ever! Suns may rise and set, seasons and years and ages pass on, generations sink to death and be lifted to resurrection; but there, a blot upon the horizon, a disgrace to the escutcheon, a foul disfigurement to all decency, a torture to the sensitive soul, and a constant menace to all bodily weakness, will remain that clam chowder, as fixed and unalterable as the everlasting hills. Ah, it is too bad!

"Colonel," said the Major, "let me suggest——"

"Brandy and water? Thank you! We can never hope for permanent relief, but that will do very well indeed." —Judge.

"As You Like It" Presented in the Open Air to a Swell Crowd—John L. Sullivan Receives a Belt—Other Openings.

[Special Dispatch to the New York Clipper.]

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 9.—Swells of a very distinguished character, together with a plentiful sprinkling of regular first-nighters, journeyed to the Masconomo House, Manchester-by-the-Sea, yesterday afternoon, and witnessed an all-round good outdoor performance of "As You Like It," for the benefit of the Actors' Fund. Success both financially and artistically stamped the show, and added laurels to Agnes Booth's already brilliant career. Everybody in cast acted splendidly, Rose Coghlan as Rosalind making a particularly big hit. Osmond Tearle looked a bit queer as Orlando, neglecting to make up at all, but his acting was well-nigh perfect. Agnes Booth Schoeffel made an ideal Audrey, and caught the audience heavily. These were the especially good performances, if I may add Frazer Coulter's Frederick. Beside the above, it was the grandest "ad." imaginable for the Masconomo. Gov. Ames graced the occasion with his presence. The seats sold at $3 and $5 each, and the total receipts were nearly $3,300; the expenses, $500, leaving $2,800 for the Actors' Fund. Many of the auditors were professionals.....Sullivan's belt-presentation show filled the Boston Theatre to overflowing. Pat Sheedy is one of the most diplomatic of managers and fairly divided the honors of the evening with the big fellow. Councilman Whall made the presentation speech, and John L. responded in a surprisingly good manner. Lots of boxing was indulged in and everybody appeared to enjoy the exhibition.....Atkinson's "Aphrodite" was given a week's go at the Museum and really pleased large audiences.... Openings elsewhere averaged quite decent, the weather being admirable.

JOHN O'BRIEN'S menagerie has been moved to the Winter quarters of Adam Forepaugh by the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., who have a claim of freight charges against it for $350. An order from a Philadelphia court has been obtained, authorizing a sale, which is expected at any time.

CHARLES W. FISH is meeting with a cordial reception during the present tour of the Frank A. Robbins Show through Canada. The show, as a whole, is highly spoken of, and its business through Canada has been most gratifying to Manager Frank A. Robbins.

WEST AND WARD joined Holland & McMahon's Show at Hurley, Miss., Aug. 1.

ROBINSON'S CIRCUS train met with an accident July 26, about four miles from Reno, Nev. The mishap injured one man and the baby elephant, besides damaging several cars. The train was delayed an hour.

RICHARD JOHNSON, the "Giant Cowboy" of the Cody Wild West Show, has been in trouble in London. His aggressive vigor caused him to have a slight disagreement with a London policeman. The policeman is now at a hospital, but is not fatally injured. Johnson was arrested for assault and released under $500 bail.

JOEL HEYWOOD, formerly of Heywood's Pavilion Show and also of Heywood Bros.' Co., died at Woodville, Kan., July 26.

SUCH of John O'Brien's Circus properties as were left at Albany, N. Y., will be sold Aug. 11 to cover the debts of the show.

THE Morrello Bros. and Emma Marden have left Main's Circus and returned to this city.

REPORTS from the Whitney Family Show indicate that they have been doing a fine business. Chas. Fox, Dutch and Irish comedian, joined at Wadsworth, O., July 30. Al. R. Hunt left at the same place. Mr. Hunt has bought a hotel at Bangor, Mich., and intends to make that his home. Will W. Carman and Nora Heywood were married July 31. They are members of the show, and were the recipients of many useful presents from the company. Sam Hardy recently received news that his wife had made him a present of a ten-pound boy. Aug. 3 was Mr. Whitney's birthday. The company showed their respect by presenting him with a pair of slippers and a gold-headed cane. The show is making West, and will close season at Imlay City, Mich., Oct. 15.

HARRY CLAYTON, with Wallace & Co.'s Show, is the happy father of a son born at Chicago, Ill., July 30. His wife, Mamie Clayton the Albino, is doing nicely.

CHAS. LEE of Lee's Wagon Show recently purchased two ponies which he is now breaking.

GEORGE ORRIN of the Orrin Bros. was in Anvers Aug. 19. He is now in London, and "did" Brussels en route. He goes to Paris next week, and will probably extend his trip to Spain and Germany.

THE knights of the brush of Frank A. Robbins' advance-car, No. 1, are as follow: Gus A. Bernard, agent; Frank C. Gayler, press-agent; Dave O'Connor, W. H. Alvather, Frank C. Rockwell, Gus Van Tyle, Harry Overton, U. J. Smith, Harry Walker, John Mahon, M. B. Wescott.

Dayton recently presented his wife with a diamond ring on her birthday.

SANTIAGO PUBILLONES of the Havana, Cuba, Circus, recently gave his patrons an exciting show. His favorite elephant battled with a splendid bull, and the latter was mortally wounded. The success of the innovation has taken Sig. Pubillones and his elephant to Mexico, where the contest will be repeated. He returns to Havana about Aug. 25.

THE THREE ASHTONS (Harry, Will and George) joined Shields' Show at Newport, Ky. Master Artie Shields lately made his first appearance on the high-wire as a Dude, and did his quick changes with much success. Good business is reported from the show.

INDIANA.—[See Page 341.]

FORT WAYNE.—Your correspondent has finally decided to manage the Academy the coming season, and has been hustling for attractions during the past three weeks. Another young gentleman of this city will act in conjunction with him, and if hard, earnest work will succeed neither the public, manager of company or the owner of the house will have any cause for complaint when the season is ended. The Academy is now in better condition than at any time in its history, and will prove a cosy place. T. H. Winnett will represent the house in New York. For some reason there is no opera company booked at either house, and when they have appeared big houses have invariably been the result. Why they give a city of 38,000 inhabitants such a wide birth is a wonder to me. There will be no attractions at either house in August. The season will open about Sept. 15.

NEBRASKA.

LINCOLN.—At Funke's, Eunice Goodrich's Co. came week of Aug. 1, presenting "The Pearl of Savoy," "Rosedale," "Dad's Boy," "East Lynne," etc., to good business. Haverly's Minstrels are well billed for 8.....The People's Theatre, having undergone extensive improvements, will open for the season 12, with an amateur performance by Co. D, First N. S. G. Hyers' Colored Comedy Co. come week of 15, and the De Lorme-Neal Co. week of 22.....Samuel P. Cox, contracting-agent of the Doris & Colvin Show, was in the city 1. His show comes Sept. 20.....Mitchell Ladish, advance of the De Lorme-Neal Co., was here Aug. 2.

SPRINGFIELD.—It has been a long time since the Summer season has been so unearthly destitute of things theatrical. Not even the "chestnut" supplementary season was shined up and presented to us with an extra inducement. And, judging from the present outlook, the coming Winter will let us know that such things as theatricals live, but "only" that, not more. Whether our managers are booking much or not is a question, but they are seriously engaged in more worldly pursuits, and whether this is from choice or otherwise, I will leave to others to conjecture.....Forepaugh's Circus showed here Aug. 4, and, notwithstanding the inclement weather, the tent was nearly filled to its capacity. During the Roman-standing two-horse race, one of the horses Patsy Welsh, who was racing against Adam Forepaugh Jr., was riding fell and threw him to the ground, and then rolled on to him. He was badly injured, but not seriously, however.

The stage will be 40ft. deep, and the proscenium is 20ft. high by 40ft. long. The auditorium is devoid of galleries or boxes, and the floor is level, making it possible to give receptions, banquets, etc.

MICHIGAN.

GRAND RAPIDS.—At Power's Grand, Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels opened the season here Aug. 1, playing to a crowded house, standing-room even being unattainable. Owing to the lateness of their arrival—8 P. M.—the drops for their new first-part could not be used. The entrance has been greatly improved by new decorations, wall-hangings and a new box-office, where Acting-manager Gouge can always be found. The regular season at this theatre will begin 29, but it is not announced yet what the attraction will be..... John P. Hill, who will manage the Standard Theatre, Chicago, for C. O. White, left for that city 7. "Nobody's Child" is billed for 9 at White's.....Ed. Salter, formerly treasurer at White's, will leave Aug. 15 for Saginaw and Bay City, for the theatres of which cities he will in future act as treasurer.....Harry Leavitt and Sam Fitzgerald, who have been summering at Mt. Robinson, manager of the Wonderland, is doing a big business.

BENTON HARBOR.—There had been a dearth of amusements here the past two months, until the M. S. Wilson Dramatic Co. made their appearance Aug. 3, for three nights. They played to fair audiences at cheap prices, producing "Ten Nights in a Bar-room," "Dora, or Driven from Home," and "Joshua Whitcomb." NEWARK.—The Star Opera Co. came to grief last week, through its backers, Blashfield & Co., a stock-broking firm. Mr. Blashfield left the city with all the money that was to be used for salaries, so the company claim. The company struck, and then Beda Voight, proprietor of Sænger Hall, assumed all the responsibilities. "The Mascot" was given to good houses all the week. This week, "The Mikado." MASSACHUSETTS.

BOSTON.—Gossip of what next season is to bring forth in this city has already commenced. It is rather too early in the game to prognosticate altogether correctly, and so I'll simply mention a few facts of near openings. After a burnishing-up process during the last few weeks, the old reliable Howard Athenæum will open Saturday night, Aug. 13, with Emily Soldene (another old reliable) and her burlesquers. Sara, the much advertised kicker, appears as the star attraction. There was some difficulty in the financial conditions of Sara's engagement, but Manager J. D. Hopkins finally made things satisfactory all 'round. Sara arrives on the Bothnia 12. The Soldene people play through week of 15, and thence start on a forty weeks' tour. Manager Harris was in New York lately, scouring for novelties. The Howard's auditorium has been redecorated and repainted throughout. New draperies have been supplied to the boxes, and all the seats have been renumbered.

BOSTON THEATRE.—This house opened for a single night 8, when the big testimonial was tendered John L. Sullivan, and he was presented with the famous $10,000 (?) diamond belt. A preliminary will commence 15, when Barry and Fay will appear for two weeks, opening in "Irish Aristocracy," and doing Fred Maeder's new farce the last closing week (Aug. 22), entitled "Mulcahy's Big Party." The people in the company are: Nettie Lyford, Dolly Davenport, Kate Quinton, Callan, Haley and Callan, Ross O'Neill and Daniel De Lacy. Henry Chanfrau will do "Kit" later, and afterwards the big bill of the Boston's season, "A Run of Luck," will be produced.

BOSTON MUSEUM.—The performances of "Aphrodite," by Charles Atkinson's Co., are now running more evenly, and with quite a little snap. I have seen better plays, yet Atkinson's Co. seem to know the people pretty well, and please them, too. This is the last week. Sweatnam, Rice & Fagan's Minstrels open for a week 15. Roland Reed follows, 22, for a week, and on 29 the regular Museum stock company will commence the Fall and Winter season with "The Dominie's Daughter" as the initial bill. Later in the season these plays will be produced: "Gwynne's Oath," "The Butler," "A Noble Vagabond," "The Hobby-horse," "A Tragedy," "Sophia" and "The Red Lamp." Charles Barron and Annie Clarke, after an absence of a season or two, have been re-engaged in their old capacities of leading-man and leading-lady, respectively. Other engagements are: Mrs. Vincent, Isabelle Evesson, May Davenport, Kate Ryan, Helen Dayne, Annie Chester, Grace Atwell, Frazer Coulter, Arthur Falkland, Alfred Hudson, Edgar Davenport, James Nolan, James Burrows, Boyd Putnam, C. E. Boardman, H. P. Whittemore and E. E. Rose. Of course, William Seymour has been re-engaged in his efficient capacity of acting and stage manager.

GLOBE THEATRE.—"Jay Dee" has it that this house will reopen 15 with the "Star Spangled Minstrels." I never heard of 'em, but perhaps they are the minstrels who "carry the banner." Frederic Bryton, in "Forgiven," will be the first really legitimate attraction. I imagine he will open about 29.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.—Nothing is heard here save talk about "The Corsair." It will open the season at the Hollis about—well, it will be right along toward September, if not in the balmy month itself, before we shall witness the grand revival of Composer Rice's pretty extravaganza. George Thorne, Frank David, George Schiller, Kate Hart, Annie Summerville, Louise Montague, Maud Waldemere, Ruth Stetson and Lila Blow are a few of "The Corsair" people.

PARK THEATRE.—This little house, that made so much money last season, will open the latter part of the current month, possibly, but I think it more probable that the opening date will have marked a few days into September. I have heard that "Jim the Penman" will be the opening bill. "Elaine" is talked of as liable to be played at the Park. Charley Reed, in "A Rag Baby," and Helen Dauvray are among the bookings.

WINDSOR THEATRE.—The season here opens Aug. 15, with the Leonzo Bros. and their dogs, in a characteristic drama.

WORLD'S MUSEUM.—A cannabalistic gorilla is heavily leaded as the big show this week. The ollo is furnished by Thomas J. Ryan, Mai Richfield, Ed. Hefferman, Chas. McDonald, Ella Raine, Monti Collins, Olympian Quintet, Joe Campbell, Lou Shaw, Maggie Evans, Lizzie Haywood (the Four Tourists), Harry Fielding and Maggie Walker, Humes, Will Petrie and Maggie Elise, T. F. Thomas and G. W. Watson, Tom McIntosh, Chas. Pope, Fred Huber and Kitty Allyne, Lillie Billington, Don Fielding, Celia Lindsay, Geo. Williams.

KEITH & BATCHELLER'S GAIETY MUSEE AND BIJOU THEATRE.—Manager Keith frankly says he is astonished at the really big opening given his new departure last week. He says it is all right, and that "there is nothing the matter with K. & B.'s G——y M——e and B——u T——e." The latest this week are: The Fitzgibbon Family, W. H. Sandilands and Vic Ruthden, Donna Stickney, Barr and Shelbyden, George Burnell, Jas. Smith and Chas. Hoey, Geo. W. La Rosa and Sullivan's Mirror of Ireland, in addition to John Barker and the stock.

OAKLAND GARDEN.—"Virginia" is the current bill at the Garden.

MCELROY'S SEASIDE PAVILION.—Home Willard's Dramatic Co. are doing "The Danites" this week. James Horne, a young and clever Bostonian, does the Sandy-role, and Charles Willard and Maud Hillman are respectively the Judge and Billy Piper.

ZEPHYRS.—Solomon's Wild West Show are said to be doing well at Roxbury.....A tremendous audience gathered at the Point of Pines Sunday, 7, when a splendid concert was given by Neuendorff's Music Hall Orchestra, in addition to Baldwin's Cadet Band.

MANCHESTER-BY-THE-SEA.—The first open-air (or pastoral) performance in America of "As You Like It" took place afternoon of Aug. 8 on the lawn in front of the Masconomo House here, in aid of the Actors' Fund. The affair was conceived by Mrs. Agnes Booth-Schoeffel. This was the complete cast: The Banished Duke, Mark Price; Duke Frederick, Frazer Coulter; Amiens, Lillian Conway; Jaques, Frank Mayo; Le Beau, F. B. Conway; Oliver, Charles Abbott; Jaques De Bois, George C. Boniface Jr.; Orlando, Osmond Tearle; Adam, George C. Boniface; Charles the Wrestler, Harry Meredith; William, W. H. Crane; Touchstone, Stuart Robson; Sylvius, Arthur Falkland; Corin, George A. Schiller; First Lord, C. E. Boardman; Rosalind, Rose Coghlan; Celia, Minnie Conway; Phœbe, Maida Craigen; Audrey, Agnes Booth-Schoeffel. Before the comedy a prologue written for the occasion by W. T. W. Ball was delivered by Mrs. Schoeffel, and the musical numbers accompanying the play included the solos "Under the Greenwood Tree" and "Blow, Blow, thou Winter Wind," by Lillian Conway; the glee, "What Shall He Have who Killed the Deer?" by H. C. Barnabee, W. H. McDonald, Charles R. Adams and George W. Want. The Mendelssohn Male Quartet, consisting of F. W. Knowles, C. J. Buffum, J. L. White and J. K. Barry, also sang. A. M. Palmer was the manager of the performance, and he was assisted by John B. Schoeffel and G. W. Floyd. The stage-manager was William Seymour and the costumer was George Hayden. A grand orchestra of twenty-five pieces, under the direction of J. J. Braham, furnished the incidental music.

SPRINGFIELD.—Edith St. Leon's Female Minstrels and Burlesque Co. have drawn large houses at the Springfield Musee the past week, and are retained for week of Aug. 8. The plantation sketch-team, John and Nellie Healy, made a hit. The other honors were shared by Hattie Westcott, Dolly Island, Billy Chace and Tom Donnelly. Owing to negligence on the part of the railroad company, some of the ladies' trunks did not arrive till Aug. 2, thereby causing some disappointment night of 1. The New Orleans Minstrel Co. will close the Summer season week of 15.

TAUNTON.—The Miller, Stowe & Freeman Circus arrived here Aug. 7 and open 8 for four performances. I prognosticate a brilliant financial success, which they evidently deserve. Every kindness was shown your correspondent by the M., S. & F. people. Mr. Miller is at present in New York, looking up animals and other attractions for their Winter tour in the South.

COTTAGE CITY.—At the Casino July 29, Stover's Co., in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," had a fair audience. It had been announced that "Ten Nights in a Bar-room" would be given 30, but a repetition of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was substituted to slim business.

PITTSFIELD.—Lillie Clay's Co. opens at the Academy Aug. 22. The management of this house are having the seats recovered and other needed improvements made.

NEW BEDFORD.—Miller, Stowe & Freeman's Circus had good houses July 29, 30.

WEST VIRGINIA.

PARKERSBURG.—All is quiet in the theatrical line at present, but preparations are going on for the opening of the season, which occurs Aug. 29. Electric lights will be put in the Academy by that time, all the attaches will be uniformed, and other improvements made. Manager Van Winkle will preside at the box-office this season, and Prof. Wolf will lead the orchestra. Manager Van Winkle returned from the East last week, where he booked some strong attractions. Our Fair occurs Aug. 30, 31 and Sept. 1, 2, and the Belle Gilbert Co., with orchestra and band, will be at the Academy that week, opening Aug. 29.....A fire at Clarksburg, between here and Grafton, 4, destroyed the Town Hall, a handsome brick building, and the only place in the town where performances could be given.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

SEATTLE.—There are no amusements this week, the Miln Dramatic Co. being the last troupe here. One of their leading members dropped from the company while here, and, together with Joseph T. Kelly and John Baker, compose the new arrivals at the Bijou Variety Theatre.....Although business is dull, Manager Frye of Frye's Opera-house assures me that he has booked enough companies to make the Fall and Winter lively. "The Devil's Auction" will be given at Frye's Opera-house, 12 and 13.

TEXAS.—[See Page 341.]

AUSTIN.—Millet's Opera-house has been closed for the last four weeks, undergoing repairs. One month will be necessary to complete the work, and when finished the house will be one of the handsomest and most comfortable in the State. An accurate description of the improvements cannot as yet be given, but one of the principal features is the addition of one gallery and the reseating with opera-chairs, increasing the capacity about 400. The roster of the house will, in all probability, be the same as last season, viz.: C. F. Millet, proprietor and manager; J. A. Milligan, treasurer.

WISCONSIN.

LA CROSSE.—At the McMillan Opera-house, Rhea produced "Pygmalion and Galatea" Aug. 5 to a big house. The weather had been extremely hot, but the sudden change enabled us to make a big turn out. Truesdale & Hankerson report having secured some very fine attractions for the coming season. The house will be closed until 30, when Haverly's Minstrels hold the boards.

FOREIGN.

M. GARNIER of Sarah Bernhardt's Co. has, according to a cablegram from Paris, challenged Henri Rochefort to fight a duel for publishing a derogatory article with reference to incidents that occurred while the company was at Rio Janeiro. "FILL UP THE BOWL."

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

Fill up the bowl, it may be the last
That ever together we'll drain;
Yet still in my dreams, as I live o'er the past,
With you I'll be happy again.
Though long, dreary wastes between us may lie,
Of thousands of miles by the chart,
Let us drink to the friendship that never will die,
No matter how far we're apart.

Let us fill up the bowl, and drink to the past,
And all that the past may recall,
Those few happy moments—too happy to last—
When life had no sorrow at all.
Though a cloud in the present may hang ever nigh,
With cares that encompass the heart,
Let us drink to the friendship that never will die,
No matter how far we're apart.

Let us fill up the bowl again to the brim,
And drink to the future with joy,
Our brightest Elysium may grow to be dim,
Our golden hopes mix with alloy;
But, as long as the sun can be seen in the sky,
With affection untrameled by art,
Let us drink to the friendship that never can die,
No matter how far we're apart.

GEORGE HAGAR.

THE COUNTRY COMEDIAN.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

Remember, you are expected to amuse the audience, and these suggestions from real life will be found serviceable.

Always confine your attention to the audience. When your cue is given look at the people in front, then at your companion on the stage. Do this several times, "as long as they will take it." Leave the rest to your personal magnetism.

In referring to your heart when making love to the soubrette, first place your hands in the region of your stomach, then exclaim, "no, here!" placing your hands on your left breast. This can always be relied upon to "catch 'em." Rubbing your stomach while in the act of drinking will often provoke a smile.

While "her leads" is getting in her work on her best speech, little quiet "asides" or a generous "wing" at the audience will prove effective. Never mind what she says or looks; professional jealousies will arise. What matters it if you do ruin her best "situation?" Will not the audience pronounce you to be "the best feller to act the fule they ever seed?" And they will be right.

Local "gags" are sure laugh-winners and will make a hit if nothing else will. Something about a prominent swain and his girl will "knock 'em silly." The parties referred to will enjoy it as much as anybody—sometimes. I knew a "localized" young man to sorely smite a comedian with a brick on account of a gag; but this does not always happen—unfortunately.

After the tag of the first act has been spoken, have the man hold the curtain long enough to allow you to fall over a table or chair. This will stamp you a comedian at once. Especially is this "bit of business" necessary on the opening night of a week-stand. A swallow-tail coat with a red handkerchief reaching from the rear pocket half way down to the stage is a strong point in your favor, and the audience will know that you are the comedian if they have failed to discover it before.

If you are going to do "The Two Orphans" again this season, reserve all the good minstrel gags that you learn for Picard. Never mind what the rest of the company say about the inconsistency of it. I once heard a comedian tell some of Sam Price's first-part jokes in the snow scene of "The Orphans," and they took immense. If you are cast for the cripple, however, better leave them out.

Funny breaks on the street, if used judiciously, will help you out. If you have used a gag through the previous evening's bill drop into the drug-store where the reserve-seat tickets are sold and give it to them. For instance, if "Uncle Tom" was played you can tell the druggist that you are a lawyer and your name is Marks. The effect will be magical. In an hour everybody will be "snickering" at you. If your part is not funny enough, add something yourself. Authors are so careless.

Umbrella business always takes; likewise the red patch on a pair of black pantaloons. If you have a comedy old-man to play, make your nose as red as possible, draw the corners of your mouth down, scratch your chin with your left hand and throw the tail of your coat around with your right. Country audiences are used to this, and know what to expect.

By watching all these little details carefully, you will be enabled to strike for seven dollars a week next season, and get it, too. BARNSTORMER.

LILLIAN NORDICA.

Billed as "Mlle. Giglio Nordica," the lady whose portrait appears on THE CLIPPER'S first page made her first appearance in grand-opera in this country Nov. 26, 1883, at the Academy of Music, this city, where she sang Marguerite in "Faust." That was during a Patti season at the Academy, yet there were many earnest friends of Lillian Norton who considered her debut the event of that engagement. With the prestige of a success in her own country, Miss Norton went to France, and her Paris debut was made under similarly brilliant circumstances at the Paris Opera-house, July 24, 1884, again as Marguerite. Her work since then has been highly commended by critics here and abroad, though her appearances before the footlights have hardly been so frequent as her friends could wish. In private life she is the widow of Frederick A. Gower. He was a Providence, R. I. journalist who went abroad in the interests of the Bell Telephone Co., and rapidly became wealthy. Ever an enthusiast in matters pertaining to scientific ballooning, he finally sacrificed his life to his daring. During last year he made an ascension in France, and is supposed to have perished by the collapse of his balloon. Mme. Nordica and her mother are now in Paris, where, at the Opera-house, Mme. Nordica will likely appear shortly in the thousandth performance of "Faust." She has lately received an offer from the Krolls Theatre, Berlin, Ger., and it is probable she will accept.

PLAYED THE PIANO A WHOLE DAY.

The man in India who played the piano for twenty-three and three-quarters consecutive hours must hide his diminished head. The top record is no longer his. One Napoleon Bird, of Stackport, England, in keeping it up for twenty-five hours, was not, unlike the Indian, allowed at meal times to play with one hand while he fed himself with the other. Bird sucked ice, although his wife occasionally dosed him with chicken, toast, brandy and beer. He used two stools, and for relief changed from one to the other. Occasionally he sang to lighten the tedium, and frequently he operated a triangle with his left foot. To draw his eyes from the keyboard a mirror was hung in front of him, so that he could see all that was going on behind. His muscles were stiff during the twenty-third hour, but this wore off. He modestly attributes his success not to his expertness in fingering, but to a determination to stick. Yet we think it was due to the fact that for twelve years past he has been playing accompaniments to a party of Japanese performers known as Tannaker's. Nothing could tire a piano player who can accompany Japs for a dozen years and not go crazy.—Musical Items.

He offered the part of the Photographer to Mr. Horwitz. As Frank W. Sanger owns the piece for this country and is now in Europe, nothing can be done in the matter until his return." NEW ORLEANS.—The latest news concerning the coming opera season at the French Opera-house, which is now an assured fact, is highly encouraging. Manager Mange, who has been in Paris for over two months looking up subjects for the personnel of his opera company, writes to his agent here that his success is much above anything that he had anticipated. The closing of several theatres in Paris, as well as in the provinces, has thrown out of employment a number of excellent artists, and Mr. Mange writes that such are the good opportunities in his way that he has determined to attack boldly the grand opera. He promises not only a company complete in every respect, but carefully made up from the point of view of homogeneousness and ensemble, and in which the roles will be filled by artists of value, having already won reputation on some of the standard lyric stages. The repertory will be "Les Huguenots," "La Juive," "William Tell," "Le Prophete," "L'Africaine," "Aida," "Robert le Diable," "Hamlet," etc., with the four new creations, "Tribute de Zamara," "Le Cid," "Herodiade" and "Patrie." Besides, for those who love to laugh, the impressario will bring a complete opera troupe, composed of well-known singers and comedians. .....The hammer and paint brush are being used freely at the various theatres in the Crescent City. Schauntz managed in some way to skip the town, and has not been heard from since. Mr. Dalton says he picked Schauntz up in Cairo, and did not know of his character. He also says he will finish the Opera house by the time set for its opening. There is quite a number of first-class attractions booked at the Opera-house, and next season promises to be one of the best in the history of the house.....Johnny Snyder will travel next season with Beach & Bowers' Minstrels.....Monskio Infanti, a French aeronaut, has made several successful ascensions of late in this city, and left Aug. 1 for Evansville, Ind.....W. C. Casad, a musician of the Richards Circus, left here to join the band and orchestra with the Gilbert Comedy Co. for next season.....Jas. Robinson of Sells' Circus also joins the same band.

OWENSBORO.—Hettie Bernard Chase appeared at the Opera-house in "Rags" Aug. 2 to a fair house, considering the hot weather and the fact that she was not advertised. She was to have showed 1, but the audience was too small. Miss Chase scored several hits for her banjo-playing.....C. J. McFarland, who was in advance of the Hettie Bernard Chase Co., was sent from Nashville, Tenn., where they were playing July 28, to bill Owensboro for Aug. 1, 2. Instead of coming to this city, it is claimed that he left for parts unknown with $75 in money and two bill-trunks. The managers have offered a reward of $100 for his arrest .....George W. Richards' Ten-cent Circus pitched tents in this city Aug. 4 and continued for three days. They give a very good show, considering the price. Burt C. Norman of this city is with them.

MAYSVILLE.—The third annual fair of the Young Men's Kentucky Fair Co. will be held here Aug. 17, 18, 19 and 20. The fairs of the past two years have been grand successes, but this year's bids fair to eclipse all previous efforts. The managers of our Opera-house have secured Esther Lyons' Co., orchestra and brass band for that week, with a promise of success.

MINNESOTA.

MINNEAPOLIS.—The Grand Opera-house is still closed, but will be opened Aug. 22 by Haverly's Minstrels.

PENCE OPERA-HOUSE.—"Macbeth" is on this week, with "The Yankee Duelist" and "Irish Aristocrats" for Wednesday and Saturday matinees. The new company appears to be working together well, and is pleasing the patrons of the house.

THEATRE COMIQUE.—New faces 8: Sherman and Morrissey, Chas. Reese, Ada Clifton, Wells and Sylvano, J. J. Riley, Lizzie Smith, Vintie Valdean and Grace Cotton. Business continues good, despite almost insufferably hot weather.

HENNEPIN-AVENUE THEATRE will be opened Sept. 19 by the Booth-Barrett Co., who will play a week's engagement, with "Hamlet," "Othello," "Macbeth" and "Fool's Revenge." This, the proprietors (Sackett, Wiggins et. al) and the manager, Percy Weadon, say is authentic.

SACKETT & WIGGINS' DIME MUSEUM.—Two of the Japs, with unpronounceable names, who were here last week, remain over. On the top stage are: Hamilton and Phelps in the comedy "That Rascal Pat;" on the lower stage: Ed. Barry, Crosby and Wray, and Francis and McBride. Business is fair. Willett and Thorn closed their twelve weeks' engagement 6. It has been very successful, and they have been re-engaged for the coming season.

NOTES.—James Wheeler, who had been stage and assistant manager at Brown's Theatre Comique for over six years and a half, closed his long engagement there July 31, greatly to the regret of a multitude of friends. Mr. Wheeler has been a very competent and faithful attache of this theatre, and its popularity is due in a large degree to his efficiency and zeal. During his long engagement he had played Winter and Summer, losing no time, except three weeks spent in a visit East, and a few days due to sickness. He took the initiative in establishing the Minneapolis Lodge of Elks, which really owes its existence to his energy and perseverance. Everybody is sorry to have "Jim" go, and wish him all the success and good luck that he deserves..... The new People's Theatre is rapidly approaching completion, being now entirely under roof. Proprietor Lambert Hays, Manager W. E. Sterling and Treasurer T. L. Hays are always at the building.

ST. PAUL.—The Grand Opera-house opens Aug. 22 with "My Geraldine." During the Summer vacation extensive improvements have been and are being made in the interior of the house—new decorations throughout, new carpets in the aisles and foyer, new curtain, fire-proof ceiling, dressing-rooms and stage made fire-proof, and new wall-paper. The bookings for next season include most of the leading attractions.

SACKETT & WIGGINS could give no dates for week of 8. Business was fair last week.

OLYMPIC THEATRE.—Edwin P. Hilton, manager, has returned from his vacation in the East. He reports that his bookings for next season includes some leading novelties in his line. Ed. knows what the patrons of his house appreciate. His season will open about Aug. 22.

WEST-SIDE OPERA-HOUSE.—Scott Gun, formerly of Ford's Dramatic Co., opened this house 1 with an engagement of the Chicago Comedy Co. in "Kathleen Mavourneen," to a fair house. It was repeated 2, 3. "The Hidden Hand" 4, 5, 6. The engagement of this company will last two weeks. The west-side has a population of 25,000 to 30,000, and it would be remarkable if a theatre over there should not prosper if managed judiciously. Hitherto ventures in that field have not proven very remunerative.

WYOMING.

CHEYENNE.—The Opera-house will open Aug. 13 with Gillette's "Held by the Enemy" Co. The Theatre is to be remodeled and renovated, but to what extent is not, as yet, definitely decided.

They have been engaged to do a bar-act with a ten-cent wagon show, which, I understand, is to leave here 15.

LE MARS.—The Andress Carnival of Novelties gave four very pleasing performances here July 26, 27, being as good entertainments of the show order as ever visited this town. The performances of the trained goats, dogs and birds were excellent. The fine trapeze act of Mark and Ollie Maynard, the contortion act of Joe Lewis and the feats of the O'Brien Bros. made hits. The Andress Company carry about forty people, among whom are John F. Batcheller, Mark and Ollie Maynard, Joe Lewis, Doc Miller, Hugo, Ed. Bullings, Lieut. Allen, O'Brien Bros., Emma Maynard, outside wire-walker, and a large force of canvasmen under Jack Braddock; Mark Quigley, press-agent; D. W. Howard, advance-agent; W. R. Andress, manager; G. L. Wood, assistant-manager; Chas. Andress, proprietor.

COUNCIL BLUFFS.—At Dohaney's Opera-house, although the house had closed its regular season Aug. 1, such an attraction as Haverly's Minstrels could not be ignored, and it will be opened again 11 for them. Mrs. Langtry came July 29, appearing as Galatea. The best seats were $1.50, and the house was packed from top to bottom, although the thermometer ranged from 100 to 103 degrees in the shade all day. There was more money in the house than at any other performance since its opening night. There is nothing else booked here until the opening of the regular season of 1887–8. Chas. Andress' Carnival of Novelties came four nights, commencing Aug. 3.

CEDAR RAPIDS.—Having become satisfied that the playing of "My Partner," unauthorized by Louis Aldrich, was an infringement of property and rights, W. L. Haverly's Minstrels are billed for Aug. 13. The Wilber Comedy Co. is due 22 and week.....King & Franklin's Circus came 4.

ALBIA.—Trecia R. Griffin, supported by Manager W. C. Robyns of Ottumwa and home talent, presented "Fanchon" Aug. 1 to a large audience. BOONE.—At Phipps' Opera-house July 26 and 27, the Knights of Labor Convention for the State was held, about 5,000 people being present. The Opera-house changed management Aug. 1, being leased by Ettinger & Shelters. Fred L. Shelters will be the manager.

OTTUMWA.—Owing to excessive heat, Dr. W. Charles Carroll had very poor business Aug. 3 and 4. The attraction (panoramic views of the Rocky Mountains) was very entertaining.

Mr. Maguire appeared as Raphael Duchalet in "The Marble Heart," supported by his own company. The piece was repeated at the Saturday matinee and evening with Mr. Maguire in the leading-role. Daniel Sully began a week's engagement Aug. 1. He opened in "Daddy Nolan," and has the promise of a big week. The New York Philharmonic Club's two nights, July 25, 26, at this house, established the fact that the people of Butte appreciate good music, whether in concert or opera, as the house was well filled both nights with appreciative audiences.

THEATRE COMIQUE.—Since Harry Montague's return to this house "Standing room Only" has been the legend. His comedy, "The Dude," with himself and wife, Sophie Duncan, in the leading-roles, was a success week of July 25–31. NEW YORK.

New York City.

REVIEW OF THE WEEK.—The fortnight ended Aug. 6 has not been equaled for its dullness, from a metropolitan theatrical standpoint, in many years. Twenty playhouses were with dark auditoriums, and at only two of the very few open were the receipts at all profitable..... The theatres dark all the week were these: DALY'S, HARRIGAN'S PARK, the THALIA, STANDARD, BIJOU, FIFTH-AVENUE, H. R. JACOBS' THIRD-AVENUE, POOLE'S, FOURTEENTH-STREET, NIBLO'S, HARLEM COMIQUE, STAR, UNION-SQUARE, WINDSOR, PEOPLE'S, GRAND OPERA-HOUSE, LYCEUM, DOCKSTADER'S, ACADEMY and METROPOLITAN.....There was no change in the prosperity of "Monsieur" at the MADISON-SQUARE, where Johnstone Bennett's hit as Sally is a shade less boisterous than at first, owing to a not injudicious use of the repressing power on Mr. Mansfield's part......"Erminie" ran along to fairly good houses at the CASINO, and on Saturday night, Aug. 6, Fanny Rice sang Javotte's music for the last time. Georgie Dennin will succeed her in the role this week, and Miss Rice will rest until Carleton's Opera Co., with whom she is signed, open their Fall tour..... The McCaull Opera Co. continued in "The Beggar-student" at WALLACK'S to somewhat profitable business ... The single week of "Desperate Straits" at TONY PASTOR'S THEATRE was not encouraging to the backers of the piece.

THE FIFTH-AVENUE THEATRE on Aug. 22 will open its regular season with the first metropolitan performance of "Allan Dare" by the company organized by H. C. Miner and McKee Rankin. On Sept. 19 Mrs. Langtry will commence her six weeks' engagement in Charles Coghlan's play, "Cleopatra," as THE CLIPPER long ago made known, will not be done during this season. Mrs. Langtry returned to her New York residence Aug. 2. Kate Pattison will probably leave her company, as there is no part for her in Mr. Coghlan's new piece. Manager George Keogh and Mrs. Le Breton (Mrs. Langtry's mother) sailed for England 6. Mr. Keogh will return Sept. 10. On Oct. 31 Mrs. James Brown Potter will make her American debut at the Fifth-avenue, but in what play is not yet decided.

THE game of baseball on the Polo grounds Aug. 4, between nines composed of professionals, netted about $600 for Rachel Booth. Dan Hart umpired. The teams were captained respectively by R. C. Hilliard and De Wolf Hopper, and among the players were Clark Sammis, J. T. Sullivan, Digby Bell, Frank Lane, Walter Collier, J. F. Harley, Jos. Frankau, Arthur G. Thomas, John H. Russell, J. H. Mack and others. H. E. Dixey added his check for $20 to the receipts; Charles L. Davis gave $25, Fred Lubin $5, A. L. Heckler $10, and others like amounts. Credit for the success of the game is due to E. Rosenbaum, J. H. Russell and A. L. Heckler.

THE openings at the city houses are nigh at hand. The Union-square will start Aug. 29 with "One Against Many" (John L. Burleigh starred), the Fourteenth-street on the same night with "The Still Alarm," and the Star on the 22d with McNish, Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels. The Lyceum will reopen 22 with a revival of "The highest Bidder." Of the people engaged for all these pieces, and of the plans of their managers, THE CLIPPER has already spoken in detail.

MANAGER GEORGE W. REED of the People's Theatre, Chicago, Ill., has returned to the West with the easy conscience of one who has done his business well and enjoyed himself at the same time. He was Oliver Byron's guest at the Bijou Cottage, Long Branch, N. J., during a portion of his stay, and he testifies in eloquent language to Mr. Byron's boundless hospitality. Others have paid that popular actor like tribute long before this.

THE German concert-garden proprietors have gained a concession from the Mayor. A large delegation, headed by ex-Alderman Louis Wendel and Mr. Sulzer, on Aug. 5 visited Mr. Hewitt and demanded on behalf of all the park-keepers in the city that permission be granted them to have music until 2 o'clock in the morning. After an hour's struggle the Mayor agreed that the band's might play until 1 A. M., but after midnight only string instruments will torture the neighbors.

THE WINDSOR THEATRE will open for the Fall and Winter season Aug. 15, with the first New York performance of "Gwynne's Oath." Emma Skerritt, Isabella Irving and Herbert Kelcey are engaged, in addition to those already named in THE CLIPPER. E. F. Kendall follows 22, in "A Pair of Kids."

MANAGER JOHN HOLLINGSHEAD received a farewell dinner at the Manhattan Club night of Aug. 4, given in his honor by W. J. Florence. Fourteen plates were laid, and among the guests were J. A. McCaull, W. M. Conner, Alfred Thompson and William Yardley. Mr. Hollingshead sailed for London Aug. 6.

"THE FALL OF BABYLON" continues at St. George, S. I., and the attendance of late has been quite large. Offers have been made to the company controlling "The Fall of Babylon" for a transfer of the spectacle to London, Eng., next season. The plans of the managers, however, seem to prefer a tour of the American cities.

CHARLES T. H. HELMSLEY, secretary and treasurer of the Royal Alexandra Theatre, Liverpool, Eng., and Mr. and Mrs. T. Ebert, who are engaged for "The Marquis" at the Casino, arrived from England Aug. 3. Mr. Helmsley is here for a rest, and will return 23.

IT IS, we hear, quite probable that Harry Kellar will open his next season at an up-town theatre. His manager, Edward Thurnaer, has recently returned from Atlantic City, N. J., where Prof. Kellar had a successful month's engagement.

NIBLO'S GARDEN will inaugurate its Fall and Winter season next week, with "Lagardere," of which we have already written at length. The spectacle is expected to run ten weeks at least.

HARRY LACY will play Jack Manley in "The Still Alarm," to be done at the Fourteenth-street Theatre Aug. 29. Blanche Thorne is engaged for the female lead.

COL. O. C. GENTHER, manager of the Grand Opera-house, Weeeling, W. Va., arrived in the city last Wednesday. He is a big jolly fat man, and a "gentleman of the old school, sah."

WILLIAM H. THAULE has arrived from England, in advance of Teresina Tua, the violinist, whose American debut will occur Oct. 17, at Chickering Hall.

THE injunction obtained last week by the Fire Department, restraining Levi & Epstein from giving shows under canvas at Harlem Bridge, has been dissolved by Judge Potter.

MADISON-SQUARE GARDEN will open Aug. 15 for a series of orchestra concerts, under John Lavine's management. Gustav Hinrichs will direct the musicians.

"ERMINIE" is in its final weeks at the Casino. "The Marquis," by the new company, will follow next month.

ALEX. COMSTOCK is attending to the press-work of John L. Burleigh's opening in "One Against Many" at the Union-square Theatre Aug. 29.

ARTHUR REHAN'S Co. are rehearsing at Daly's Theatre this week.

MANAGER H. W. MYAR of El Paso, Tex., has been in the city during the past week.

DOCKSTADER'S MINSTRELS will begin rehearsals at the home theatre Aug. 22.

MANAGER W. M. RICHARDSON of Erie, Pa., is a recent city arrival.

P. H. O'CONNOR returns to the Fifth-avenue Theatre next season as treasurer. "Patsy" has made himself very popular with the patrons of this house, and his absence would be much missed. Mr. O'Connor, wife and daughter are at present at Coney Island, where they are stopping at the Hotel Brighton.

GEORGE W. WADLEIGH, resident representative of Ed. E. Rice and H. E. Dixey, is a very active man at present. He is attending to the details of the business connected with the three attractions in which his managers are interested.

THE UNION-SQUARE THEATRE is at present in a chaos of confusion caused by the general tearing out of entrance, boxes, etc., preparatory to the extensive alterations and refurnishings which are to be done. J. M. Hill is very busy looking after the matter, and benignly receives all callers in his new and elegant office recently completed. It is a handsome affair, and reflects great credit on the refined tastes of Mr. Hill.

A. B. ANDERSON, having returned to this city, has engaged the following people to support Henry Chanfrau the coming season: Ada Colvin, Gracie Wade, Little Ada McKittrick, Edward Summers (stage-manager), T. T. Rainey, V. T. Wilson, J. E. Sidley, Clarence Bellaire and W. B. Alexander (his fourteenth season in "Kit"), and C. Bangs, treasurer. A. B. Anderson is proprietor and manager in advance. The company opens season Sept. 5 at the Boston Theatre. After playing six weeks there they go to Brooklyn, Washington, Richmond, Baltimore, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Louisville, Chicago, Buffalo, Philadelphia and other places not yet named.

EDWARD E. KIDDER has signed as acting-manager of Dockstader's Theatre for the coming season. Mr. Dockstader, he tells us, will be assisted by a notably strong company, and the first-part singing will be made even more of a feature than it has been. Of course there will be a rapid change of local burlesquers and hits. Mr. Kidder's facile pen assures this with ease. The opening will occur Sept. 5.

W. H. SHERWOOD will remain in the city until Aug. 15 or 20. He is booking both for the Academy of Music at Norfolk, Va., and the Mozart Academy, Richmond, representing Manager Jos. Strassburger.

LONDON THEATRE.—Under the management of Sam T. Jack, the attraction titled "Lilly Clay's Colossal Gaiety Co." opened for two weeks afternoon of Aug. 8. At the matinee the house held a large audience; in the evening standing-room was at a premium. The minstrel first-part showed up handsomely, with Rice and Barton on the ends, the ladies being tastefully arranged. The specialty numbers introduced to advantage Sidney Enson in motto songs, Irma Von Rokoy in a pas de seul, La Porte Sisters in vocal selections, Sabra Lonsdale in skipping-rope dances, Rice and Barton in a pleasing melange, Sadie Norwood in statuesque posings, Rostelli, Mansfield and Queen in well-rewarded vocal efforts, and last, but by no means least, Maggie Cline, who was specially complimented by several encores. The burlesque included the whole company in the cast, with Alice Townsend in the leading-role. Under the title of "Apollo in Eden, or The Little Devil's Revel," a very moral edition of "Little Faust," was done. The piece will bear boiling down to a large extent. As it was, it served its purpose well in displaying shapely female forms. The London will be dark week of 22, during which time the house will be thoroughly renovated and repainted. New scenery throughout will be put in, and other stage improvements will be added.

TONY PASTOR'S THEATRE.—"The Way of the World" opened to good business evening of Aug. 8. This piece has been rewritten and improved since it was seen at this house several months ago under the title of "Our Minstrel Boys." The present cast is: George Dunbar, Vitia and Leo, Morris Weston; Egbert Folwell, S. J. Forhan; Manuel Sherman, C. E. Osmond; Horace Dunbar, Edward Bethel; Nellie Dunbar, Miss G. Cushman; Sally Snooks, Mary Bird; Mrs. Dunbar, Mrs. W. J. Horton; Bridget Fagan, Ed. Webster; Frank Stevens and Kief, Sam Weston. The comedy ran smoothly and served its purpose well in amusing. Next week, a company headed by Joseph Palmer in "The Widow Bedott."

MINER'S BOWERY THEATRE.—Monday evening, Aug. 8, was cool and comfortable, and the audience at this house showed up handsomely. No matter how good a performance had been put on, the intense heat of the past few weeks had kept many people away. The following opened in fine style for a week on Monday evening: Leonard and Hart, Annie Boyden, Geo. C. Marshall, Al. Fostell and Florence Emmett, Saunders and Burdell, Leech Bros., Carter and Anderson, Callan, Haley and Callan, and Miles, Ireland and McHugh. Each act went smoothly, and the performers were the recipients of tokens of approval.

THE Sommerfest of the Deutscher Liederkranz was celebrated at Bowery Bay night of Aug. 8, in the presence of about 2,000 people. The Philadelphia Männerchor Society were guests of the New Yorkers.

THE middle of October will see Wallack's Theatre open under the Abbey management.

LEADER W. S. MULLALY of Dockstader's Theatre paid THE CLIPPER a call Aug. 9, on his return from Newport, R. I. He says the personel of his excellent orchestra will remain unchanged this season, and this is good news, in truth, for a better minstrel orchestra has not been heard here—at least by the generation whose beards are not gray.

E. P. SIMPSON, business-manager of the Walnut-street Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa. (and an old CLIPPER correspondent, by the way), was in town Aug. 8, on his way to the Quaker City. His Summer has been occupied in the interests of the Globe Printing House of Philadelphia.

TONY PASTOR speaks in high terms of his trip to England. His entertainers there were untiring in their efforts to make his stay enjoyable. His visit, indeed, was too short for them to do all they wanted for this genial manager, who feels under particular obligations to Jenny Hill, Charles Godfrey (the celebrated music-hall singer), C. H. Chirgwin, Will Riley, Mrs. Weldon, Mr. Turnbull, Slade Murray and others. It was a fine vacation for Mr. Pastor and his estimable wife, and another journey to the other side is among the possibilities of the future.

THE THIRD-AVENUE THEATRE shows up in great shape since its new outside decorations have been completed. The house has been painted white, with ornamentation in gold and carmine.

THE BOULANGER MARCH struck the Bowery vaudevilles in three places evening of Aug. 8. Robert Recker's orchestra did it as an overture, the La Porte Sisters in a medley duet, and Annie Boyden in ballad shape.

ROCHESTER.—The past week has reminded one that the amusement season is again drawing near. The large, flashy posters decorate the bill-boards, handsome lithographs are hung here and there, and advance-agents are coming in on nearly every train.

ACADEMY.—Margaret Mather's Co. will appear here Aug. 22, for one week, opening the regular season.

PERSONALS.—E. J. Nugent, representing the Margaret Mather Co.; J. M. McNamara, in advance of Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels, and R. F. Hamilton, advertising-agent for P. T. Barnum, were all seen in this city the past week busy arranging for the appearance of their respective companies.....Frank W. Martineau, treasurer for Jacobs & Proctor's Academy in this city the past season, has joined the Corinne Co. as business-manager.

TROY.—Griswold Opera-house, after renovation and receiving a new drop-curtain during the recess, will reopen Aug. 15 with Gibson and Ryan in "Irish Puck." There will be no matinees on Tuesdays and Fridays the coming season. Mr. Barnes will succeed Mr. Bishop as local representative of Jacobs & Proctor, it is understood, Mr. Bishop being transferred to some other of J. & P.'s enterprises. The advance-business thus far has been performed by George E. Wallen of J. & P.'s headquarters—a very active and genial young gentleman. Substantially the old force of front and back attaches will continue in place.

BARNUM'S SHOW did a big rainy-day "biz" 6.

RAND'S OPERA-HOUSE.—Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels are here 13. Manager Strait is passing the heated term in California for his health.

THERE is an opening in Troy for a live variety theatre.

SARATOGA.—At Putnam Music-hall, the Standard Opera Co. appeared last week in "The Mikado" and "Pinafore," to large and well-pleased audiences. They remain another week, and will produce, besides the above, "Olivette" and "The Mascot."..... The sacred concert at the Park, July 31, was well attended.....The annual children's carnival, at Congress Hall, took place Aug. 5.....The Syracuse Glee Club gave a concert at Town Hall 4, to a small attendance.....McNish, Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels were greeted by a large audience at this place 5. AQUATIC.

CANADIAN OARSMEN COMPETING.

Comparatively few people witnessed the eighth annual regatta of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen, held at Ottawa, Ont., on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 6. The people of the capital city of the Dominion refused to enthuse to an extent to ensure the financial success of the regatta, and the Association is not likely to again honor that place. It was decided at the business meeting of the Association that the regatta of 1888 should be held at Toronto. At that meeting the resignation of the Chatham Rowing Club—on account of refusal to adopt an amateur definition excluding mechanics—was read and accepted, so that the association have got rid of a very undesirable member. The following officers were chosen: President, A. R. Boswell, re-elected for the seventh time; first vice-president, Sydney Smith; second vice-president, J. J. Stewart; secretary, W. A. Littlejohn, Toronto Rowing Club; treasurer, Oliver Morphy; executive committee—R. W. Grimlock, James Pearson and E. Hobson, these members being elected to fill the vacancies caused by the retirement of three of the nine members composing the committee, each of whom serves three years. The wind was high, the current strong, owing to recent heavy rains, and the water was rather rough. The course was a mile and a half straightaway, with the current, and the events resulted as follow:

Junior single-sculls—W. D. Mackay, Toronto Rowing Club, first, in 10m. 52⅕s.; G. A. Strickland, Don Amateur Rowing Club, second, by half a length; M. Shea, Don Amateur R. C., third, two lengths away; V. Henrichon, Grand Trunk Rowing Club, fourth, beaten off. Shea led at first, was soon passed by Mackay, who held the advantage to the finish, although he was obliged to row all the way.

Junior double-scull shells—Don Amateur Rowing Club, T. Delaney, A. F. Robertson (stroke), first, in 10m. 50s; Argonaut Rowing Club, M. Holden, A. J. Boyd (stroke), second, five lengths away. The Dons won from end to end.

Senior four oared shells—Toronto R. C., J. E. Knox (bow), E. A. Thompson, F. H. Thompson, Joseph Wright (stroke), first, in 9m. 8⅘s.; Winnipeg R. C., W. A. Thompson (bow), J. A. Campbell, B. Caldwell, G. F. Galt (stroke), second, by less than two lengths; Ottawa R. C., H. B. S. Lane (bow), C. A. Lewis, W. J. Johnstone, P. D. Ross (stroke), third; Argonaut R. C., R. McKay (bow), A. B. Barker, S. St. A. Sewell, J. W. Hogg (stroke), fourth. This was a grandly rowed race. The Torontos went away with a trifling advantage, subsequently surrendered the lead to the Ottawas, regained it, and then continued in front, although the Winnipegs, rowing a very plucky stern race, made them pull every inch of the distance in order to keep out of danger.

Junior four-oared shells—Winnipeg R. C., H. A. Garwood (bow), A. C. L. Fox, B. P. Dewar, J. Turnbull (stroke), first, in 9m. 33s.; Ottawa R. C., F. H. F. Mercer (bow), G. A. Sparkes, P. D. Bentley, L. F. Taylor (stroke), second, by over a dozen lengths; Lachine B. C., V. Barry (bow), C. Gwilt, P. Barry, T. Stewart (stroke), third; Argonaut R. C., W. A. Richardson (bow), A. B. Cameron, E. Smith, A. C. Macdowell (stroke), disqualified for fouling the Ottawas soon after the start, when these crews were in the lead.

Double-sculls, inrigged—Ottawa R. C., W. J. Johnstone, P. D. Ross (stroke), first; Ottawa R. C., No. 2 crew, C. W. Badgely, P. D. Bentley (stroke), second, easily defeated.

There were three row-overs — Senior double-sculls, by A. C. L. Fox and J. Turnbull (stroke), Winnipeg R. C.; single-sculls, inrigged, by L. Mitchell, Grand Trunk R. C.; and senior single-sculls, by J. J. Ryan, Bayside R. C.

Eight-oared shells — Kondrup stroked the winning crew, beating that stroked by Wade by a length, after a good race.

THE RING.

CARDIFF vs. KILLEN.

Their Glove-fight Ends in a Draw After Ten Rounds.

About twelve hundred people, many from other cities, swelte ed in Washington Rink, Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 5, gathered there to witness the long-pending contest between Patsy Cardiff and Pat Killen, the conditions of which were to fight ten rounds, with two-ounce gloves, under Queensberry rules, for divided receipts. Killen was trained down to 190lb, and was seconded by Tommy Warren and Hank Seely. Cardiff weighed about 185lb, and was in better condition, if possible, than when he met Sullivan last Winter. His seconds were John Donaldson and Jerry Murphy. After several parties had been named, the choice for referee fell upon Ed. Cain. The prominence of the principals and the amount of talk which has been indulged in regarding the contest warrants us in giving the following detailed account of a meeting that was disappointing in its result:

Round 1. Killen opened with his left, but Cardiff ducked and rushed Killen to the ropes, landing on his face several times. In getting away blows were exchanged without harm to either. Cardiff showed up best.

2. Cardiff rushed at Killen, landed his left on the body, and then went for his face, at the same time pushing him to the ropes. Killen was feeble in his defense, and failed to land. At the close Killen was bleeding freely from the nose, and had a blackened and swollen left eye. Cardiff had decidedly the best of the round.

3. Killen made several vicious passes at Cardiff, but the latter dodged them and escaped without injury. Cardiff found Killen's nose again with his left and right in turn, starting the blood afresh. Killen tried an upper-cut, but failed to land.

4. Cardiff made four rushes, and each time with advantage. Killen stood his ground better, and reached Cardiff once on the back of the neck, and in an upper-cut caught him on the breast.

5. Cardiff landed three blows in succession on Killen's face with his right. In dodging Killen's upper-cut he got one on the side of the neck. Taree times the men clinched. Cardiff rushed just before the round closed and struck Killen twice on the side of the neck.

6. The round was remarkable for the number of times the men clinched and for the number of times foul was claimed by the seconds of both sides. Cardiff always tried to strike when the referee separated him and Killen, but was not as successful as in the opening. He, however, reached Killen's stomach three times, making the latter visibly weaken. The blood was again started from Killen's nose, but before the round closed he reached Cardiff's neck hard.

7. Killen was the first to begin, and made one or two of his swinging right-hand blows, but Cardiff dodged, and, coming back at Killen, landed his left on the latter's cheek. There were several clinches in the round and more claims of foul.

8. Cardiff made several rushes and landed body blows that showed their effects. Once when he dodged a blow from Killen's right he came up under the latter and threw him to the floor, himself falling at the same time. Killen pushed the fighting at the close, and landed his left fairly on Cardiff's chin. Cardiff rushed him back, and the men clinched.

9. Killen, quite himself again, led off with his left, reaching Cardiff's neck, but not squarely, and when the latter ducked caught him under the chin an upper-cut. Cardiff landed his left on Killen's nose again, and his right on the latter's neck. Killen then forced the fighting, and the referee was busy keeping the men apart. Killen got Cardiff in the latter's corner and caught him once lightly with an upper-cut and once with a blow on Cardiff's neck. Killen got in the greatest number of blows and had the advantage.

10. Tame sparring. Killen finally led out, reached Cardiff lightly, and the latter rushed. He got in a few light body blows, and one with his right fairly in Killen's mouth. Killen then took his turn at a rush, and Cardiff ducked, when the former tried an upper-cut, which Cardiff caught on his arm. In a rush Cardiff almost threw Killen, when some one called time and others foul. The fighting stopped for an instant, when Cardiff's seconds urged him on again, and he started with a rush. He sent his right towards Killen's head, landing harmlessly on the latter's shoulder, when time was called while the men were clinched. This was the last round, and, as neither had any decisive advantage, the referee called the fight a draw.

SULLIVAN GETS HIS BELT.

Over three thousand persons went to the Boston Theatre Aug. 8 to see the presentation of the most costly belt ever made to John L. Sullivan, and to cheer the recipient of this elegant token of the admiration and esteem of his fellow Hubites and others. The presentation speech was made by W. B. F. Whall, who was highly complimentary to the illustrious John. The latter returned thanks in a few words, and afterwards appeared in set-tos with Mike Donovan and Steve Taylor. The belt was manufactured by R. F. Cook of this city. The centre-plate is a large shield, surmounted by six flags, two representing America, and the same number Ireland and England. On the front of the shield, in large, raised block letters, are the words: "Presented to John L. Sullivan by the Citizens of Boston." The name, "John L. Sullivan," on the inscription is incrusted with 256 diamonds. Just above the name is a large star containing a diamond weighing three carats. Around the edge of the shield are six single-carat stones, and on the bottom is an embossed ornament holding thirty-two stones. The belt consists of eight panels, four on either side of the shield. The panel to the right contains the picture of Pat Sheedy, surrounded by twelve brilliant diamonds, the panel to the left holds the picture of the champion in full dress. This is encircled with twelve diamonds. On the next two panels are the Irish harp, shamrock and flag, set in a grouping of twelve diamonds each. A full figure of Sullivan in fighting costume is on the next two panels. Twenty diamonds are used on each of these panels. On the two end panels appear the American shield and flag surmounted by an eagle. On each of the shields is a cluster of violets washed in brilliants. The belt is made of solid 14-carat gold, and weighs 3,000 pennyweights. It is 46in. long, the centreplate is 15in. deep, and the depth of the panels is seven and a half inches.

CLARK DEFEATS HART.—A bare-knuckle match, London P. R. rules, for $200, between Dan Hart and Sid Clark, was decided at Brown's Landing, Neb., on the Missouri River, Aug. 7. After the fourth round Clark forced the fight, but Hart was plucky. At the opening of the twenty-second round Clark got in a terrific blow on Hart's jaw, which knocked him senseless. The fight lasted 1h. 20m.

MATT GOSS of New London, Ct., and Jim Nelson of Williamsburg fought with two-ounce gloves at Fisher's Island Aug. 7. Nelson repeatedly struck foul blows, and after doing so twice in the sixteenth round Jack Ashton declared Goss the winner.

JACK HAVLIN has issued a challenge to fight any man at 116lb, weighing five hours before entering the ring, the Weir, the Spider, preferred, for $1,000 a side.

TOM HENRY vs. JACK REAGAN.

A Tame Fight Ends in a Draw Owing to Outside Interference.

The match between the middle-weights Tom Henry and Johnny Reagan, both of this city, for $1,000 a side and gate-money, to fight with two-ounce gloves to a finish, under Queensberry rules, was decided at the Idlewild dancing-pavilion, on the Long Island shore, almost opposite Larchmont, at an early hour on the morning of Aug. 8. Instead of the anticipated limited number of spectators, over three hundred were gathered about the ring, the majority of whom were evidently partisans of Reagan. The latter is the younger man of the two, being twenty-one years old, 5ft. 6in. in height, and scaling 142lb. He was trained down finer than his adversary, and was stated to have been rather unwell for two or three days. His best previous fight was with Jack Files, whom he defeated in a way that gained him good backing for this contest. He was esquired by Alf. Powers and Frank White. Henry is an Englishman by birth, is twenty-nine years old, 5ft. 6in. tall, and weighed 146lb. His previous battles on American soil include a victory over Jimmy Murray and a defeat at the hands of Jack Dempsey. He was seconded by Billy Kelly and Mike Gillespie. The crowd had been led to expect a slashing fight, but a tamer or more disappointing contest, taken as a whole, has not been witnessed within the ropes for many years, while few battles have terminated in so disgraceful a manner as this one. The superior science possessed by Henry and his reputation as a very punishing hitter impressed the backers of Reagan with the belief that the latter's road to victory was in adopting waiting tactics, hoping to thereby wear out the Englishman, whom they were confident Jack could outstay; accordingly, Reagan acted on the defensive almost to the finish of the contest. Divining their purpose, Henry, after the first few rounds, fought with greater caution than was his wont on former occasions, and, though he did nearly all the leading, he was constantly holding himself in check, as it were, contenting himself with waiting and watching for an opportunity to deliver the right-handed blow which his adversary so much dreaded, and which Tom relied upon to terminate the combat in his favor. He repeatedly essayed to bring about this result, but Reagan either got out of distance or avoided the shot by ducking, at which game he is quite clever. The consequence was that, save at long intervals, the fighting was tame in the extreme. Round after round passed without a solitary exchange of blows, and as the contest dragged its slow length along so tiresome did it become that some of the spectators quitted the ringside. The time was whiled away by the pugs mainly in feinting, fiddling about and ineffectual attempts to get in a finisher, this tedious work being relieved by occasional sharp rallies, in which good hits were exchanged. In the thirteenth round some real warm punching was indulged in, showing what the lads were capable of doing if inclined. In that round each bled the other by smacks on the mouth, Henry being quickest in turning on the tap, and thereby gaining first blood. This little spurt, which reawakened the interest of the spectators, over, extreme caution was the order on both sides for half an hour or more, several rounds being unmarked by a blow. In the twenty-third round the boxers woke up again, exchanging a series of half-arm punches, with the result that the claret was freely distilled from Henry's nose and mouth. Jack had a bit the best of the round, and, as he seemed the stronger of the two, he became a slight favorite in the betting. Desultory work followed, the men being indisposed to get to blows during several rounds, but in the twenty-ninth they had a brief spell of fighting, Reagan drawing more blood from the same source, and rushing his antagonist against the ropes. So the contest progressed, with more feinting, dodging and clinching than fighting, up to the thirty-seventh round, when Reagan, clearly the stronger, assumed the aggressive, dashing in and forcing Henry to the ropes, where they rattled away merrily with both hands at short range. The fighting was hard and somewhat in favor of Reagan. In the following round Jack resumed his forcing tactics, and they were quickly in holds and pegging away at half arm, followed by a break and open fighting, each doing good execution. During this round the ring was invaded by excited outsiders, who refused to leave, and the thirty-ninth round was a scrambling affair, the fighters being hemmed in by a struggling crowd of partisans, who pulled and hauled them about. A general row seemed imminent, in order to avoid which Referee Frank Stevenson declared the fight a draw, in which decision the excited partisans of the contestants could not do otherwise than acquiesce. While Henry lay on the floor he was shamefully maltreated and might have been seriously hurt had not friends came to his rescue. The disgraceful manner in which this affair ended shou d have the effect of putting a stop to all fights, except those that are exclusive as regards spectators, in this vicinity for some time to come, and it is certain that none of the clubmen who were present will be found in such company again.

McCOY DEFEATS McCORMICK.

A couple of light middle-weights, named Harry McCoy and Thomas McCormick, fought with small gloves for a purse of $200 near Jersey City Aug. 5. The combatants if not skillful were full of fight and plucky, and they slugged away in merry fashion, McCormick assuming the aggressive, drawing first blood from the nose in the second round and having decidedly the best of the milling up to the fifth round, when he laid himself open and napped a knock-down blow on the neck. It proved a settler, for although he struggled to his feet in time, and even came up for three rounds more, he was dazed and unable to do any execution. McCoy, however, did not attempt to finish the job quickly, feeling weary himself and being content to treat his antagonist with gentleness until the latter's seconds, seeing his chance was gone, threw up the sponge.

KILRAIN VS. NOLAN.—Jake Kilrain, according to a dispatch from Baltimore, will not keep his engagement to meet Pete Nolan in Cincinnati. The reason assigned for withdrawal is that Kilrain has received a cablegram from his backer in the match with Jim Smith, requesting him not to engage in any sort of fight until the international battle. This will be a hard pill for Nolan to swallow, besides keeping a nice roll of money out of the pockets of both principals. Seeing that the big fight is so far off the necessity for knocking this match on the head is not apparent.

BILL BRADBURN has determined to rest content with his recent decisive victory over Frank Glover, and has announced his final retirement from the P. R. He has gone to work at the stockyards of Phil. Armour & Co., Chicago, where his brother has for years been a cattle buyer.

PAT MURPHY'S superior skill enabled him to easily defeat John Devoe, a much bigger man, in a glove fight of an impromptu character, lasting six rounds, at Cincinnati, O., Aug. 5. The loser was pretty severely punished, although the gloves used were not hard.

CHARLES PALMER and Charles Burke fought with soft gloves for $100 at the Opera-house, Fargo, Dak., Aug. 4, one of the mittens bursting in the ninth round, and the contest being in consequence declared a draw.

WILLIAM EVANS undertook to knock out Stanley Cutler in six Queensberry rounds at the Cleveland Gymnasium on Aug. 4, but as he repeatedly fouled the latter by butting and biting him, the referee gave the fight against him.

HARRY GIBBS knocked out Charley Evans at Wilmington, Del., for a purse of $300, Aug. 3, the contest lasting nine rounds.

PETE MCCOY and Denny Kelleher of Quincy, Mass., are matched to box ten rounds for a purse of $500, offered by the Crib Club of Boston.

PASTIME ATHLETIC CLUB.

The third of the monthly club competitive meetings of the Pastime A. C. was held on their grounds at the foot of East Sixty-fourth street, this city, on Sunday, Aug. 7, and, the weather being delightful, there was a big muster of their friends, who took much interest in the well-contested events. Return:

One-furlong handicap-run — Hagermeyer, 5yds. start, and Boyle, 6yds., ran a dead heat, and in the run-off the former breasted the worsted first by an inch.

Putting the shot—George Holby, first, 37ft. 9in.; Patrick O'Keefe, second, 37ft. 5in.

One-mile handicap-walk—R. Worth, 50s. start, first, in 7m. 40s.; William Burkhardt, scratch, second, after a hard struggle.

Half-mile handicap run, Sullivan Trophy—J. W. Reilly, 3yds. start, first, in 2m. 13⅗s.; T. Avery Collett second.

Running long-jump—A. Lewis first, 19ft. 9in.; A. Leck second, 19ft. 5in.

Two-mile run—T. A. McNally first, in 10m. 40s.; H. L. Hagan second.

Obstacle race—Won by Archibald Brown, the contest affording much amusement to the spectators.

INTERNATIONAL HANDBALL.—The handball match between John Lawlor, champion of Ireland, and Phil Casey of Brooklyn, the American champion, commenced in Cork, Ire., Aug. 4. The match is for the championship of the world, best eleven out of twenty-one games, ten to be played at Cork and eleven at New York. During the ninth game a cry was raised that the gallery was falling, and a panic ensued, some of the spectators jumping a distance of twenty feet to the ground. A mob entered the court and play was postponed. Of the eight games played Lawlor won five and Casey three. Play was resumed on the following day, when Casey won the ninth game and Lawlor the tenth, leaving the latter the winner of the first series by a score of six to four.

THE Nineteth Lacrosse Club, which is made-up from the ranks of the Nineteth Battalion of Winnipeg, Man., has at last, after playing all the clubs in the surrounding country a dozen times or less in the last two seasons, succeeded in gaining the championship and silver cup, and can now call themselves the champion lacrosse club of Manitoba and Northwest Territories.

CARDS.

F. D. T., Vinton.—He could stand his hand or have one "pull" at the widow. You should agree among yourselves as to the settlement of disputes arising from a departure from the regular game.

J. C., Chicago.—Yes. The jack always counts unless there is a misdeal.

J. McC., Springfield.—For various good reasons pedro cannot well be played two-handed. As you two were playing the game, C was right, and is entitled to the count.

H. M. M., Emporia.—A was too hasty in making his straddle; he should have waited until C had finished putting up. As the case is stated, C could withdraw.

J. K. E., Moore's Station.—Yes. Being dealer does not debar him from counting in the same way as any other player.

CONEY ISLAND CLUB.—He could discard and draw to suit himself. There is no sense or justice in requiring him to "lay-out," as that would expose his hand. If any dispute arises, the position of his rejected cards in the discard pile, providing it was properly made, will show what he opened on.

B. B. B., Columbia.—We fully answered your question of last week as it was asked. Instead of stating an actual case in play, you again propound the same conundrum. Would it not be just as easy for you to state what the flush and straight were composed of? Then we would consider nothing but the question. Your question as asked in both instances allows of too wide a scope to be answered except in a general way.

J. I. C., New Orleans.—1. D is correct, having pegged two for the second ace, six for the third ace, twelve for the fourth ace, and two for thirty-one, making twenty-two points in all. 2. A, being given one, is out.

BASEBALL, CRICKET, ETC.

W. W., Taunton.—You win. It does not make any difference whether you played against Grace or on his team, according to the wording of the bet.

CONSTANT READER.—Bierbauer, the second-baseman of the Athletics, played with a professional team of Hamilton, Ont., in 1885.

H. P. T., Grand Island.—1. You will have to address a dealer in baseball goods in order to obtain photographs of the National League and American Association teams. 2. We do not require the services of one.

W. H. C., Wilkesbarre.—The correct standing on that date was: Detroit, 47 games won; 27 games lost. Chicago, 45 games won; 28 games lost.

G. S., Hartford.—The Detroits were as good as two games ahead of the Chicagos.

H. V. C., Philadelphia.—1. The largest number of runs in a game was made by the Niagaras June 8, 1869, in Buffalo, N. Y., they then defeating the Columbia Club of that city by a score of 209 to 10. 2. The largest score on record in a contest between professional nines was in the game between the Atlantics of Brooklyn and the Athletics of Philadelphia, July 5, 1869, when the Atlantics won by 51 to 48.

HARLEM.—1. Ward, while pitching for the Providence Club June 17, 1880, retired the Buffalo team in one-two-three order in nine consecutive innings, without a solitary safe hit being made off him. 2. The old Red House grounds were east of Second avenue and north of 106th street.

G. F. B.—Paul Hines never made a triple-play unassisted. While playing with the Providence Club against the Bostons May 8, 1878, he caught a seemingly safe hit at short left-centre when men were on third and second bases, and keeping straight on he touched third-base and threw the ball to second before the respective occupants could get back, thus assisting in a triple-play.

H. M. L., Detroit.—The bet is a draw. Hardy Richardson, while playing with the Buffalo Club, played third-base in 1879; in the outfield in 1880 and 1881, at second-base in 1882 and 1883, and he alternated between second-base and the outfield in 1884 and 1885.

R., Calvert.—A loses. The game was terminated when the side first at the bat scored fewer runs in nine innings than the other side had scored in eight innings.

R. M. S., Norway.—You are wrong. In professional games no player except he be in uniform can be substituted for any sick or injured player.

W. G. V., New Bedford.—You will find the record in THE CLIPPER ANNUAL for 1887.

CONSTANT READER, Selma.—See answer to "W. G. V."

M. S., Leadville.—A. Corcoran has a record of having done it 14,000 times. See Page 37 of THE CLIPPER ANNUAL for 1887.

TURF.

W. E. C., Laramie.—There is no record for that distance.

CONSTANT READER.—We do not know that he ever did. You can address him at the Saratoga race track.

F. M., Tacoma.—A good half-mile track can be laid out as follows: lay off two straight sides, 600ft. (parallel) each, and 452ft. 6in. apart, connected at each end with a perfect semi-circle (radius 226ft. 3in.); place your fence exactly upon the line so formed (which is the inside of your track) and your track will measure exactly half a mile three feet from the fence, the outside fence to be placed according to the width of the track desired.

A. W., East Saginaw.—You will find the records you want in THE CLIPPER ANNUAL.

AQUATIC.

W. E. Y., Philadelphia.—1. There is no authentic record of such a performance. 2. Write to the owner, N. L. Munro, 24 Vandewater street, this city, for the information. 3. That is the general name of any boat propelled through water by steam.

RING.

A. P. H., Boston.—The glove contest between John L. Sullivan and Charles Mitchell came off at Madison-square Garden, this city, on May 14, 1883. The police stopped the encounter in the third round.

L. M., Charlestown.—Jake Kilrain and Alf. Greenfield were matched, but the match fell through, owing to their not being able to secure a license.

BILLIARDS, POOL, ETC.

T. W. C., Nashville.—A lost the bet.

MISCELLANEOUS.

T. A., Richmond.—1. Your estimate of a philanthropist is likely to differ materially from ours; therefore, please excuse us. 2. No answers by mail. 3. Four dollars per year, $2 for six months, $1 for three months.

CONSTANT READER, Portage.—We did not see it stated in his obituaries that he had a brother of that name. Write to the State Department at Washington.

READER.—Not that we are aware of. Apply to the Secretary of State at Albany.

J. McM., Birmingham.—The article you inquired about can be procured from Budde & Westermann, 50 Vesey street, this city.

W. D. L., Chicago.—The latest authority we can conveniently consult is dated 1872, and states that that particular town is a "borough town," whereas London is a city.

H. G. K., Lowell.—Write to the Director of the Mint, Washington, D. C.

F. B., New Rochelle.—We fear you will not be able to obtain such photographs, save by advertising for them.

E. F., Allentown.—Unless the shooting took place under special rules, the two men who tied on 15 are to shoot off for first and second prizes. The three who tied on 10 have no claim to either prize.

J. M. S., Colfax.—C. Meyers, Mohawk, N. Y.

J. K.—We have referred the matter to them. You will probably be answered direct.

H. O., Brandon.—Send address to this office.

R. A. M'K., Memphis.—1. We never heard that anyone did, and it is hardly possible that one could. 2. They went through the Whirlpool Rapids, below the Falls.

CONSTANT READER, Corning.—Send to the American News Co., this city.

L. G. C., Allentown.—Unless the shoot was governed by special rules, or the badges were offered for different classes, the first prize goes to A and the second to B, D having no claim on either.

CLOSING OF ENTRIES.

Staten Island Athletic Club eight-oared and four-oared shell races—Aug 30, with F. W. Janssen, P. O. Box 125, New York City.

STATEN ISLAND ATHLETIC CLUB.

A feature of the celebration of the tenth anniversary of the organization of this club, to be held on Sept. 5, will be an eight-oared shell race, open to all amateur clubs in the United States and Canada, for a silver challenge cup of the value of $1,000, together with a silken banner to the winning club and a gold medal to each member of the winning crew. The cup will be rowed for annually and will be known as the Staten Island Athletic Club Cup. The distance will be one mile, straightaway, and an entrance-fee of twenty dollars, returnable to all starters, will be charged. There will also be a junior four-oared shell race on the same day, open to all amateurs, the prizes being a silk banner to the winning club and a gold medal to each member of the crew. The distance will be the same as in the other race, and an entrance-fee of ten dollars, returnable to all who start, is charged. The contests will be governed by the rules of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen.

THE SCULLING CHAMPIONSHIP.—Articles for a match for the championship of America and $1,000 a side, between Edward Hanlan and John Teemer, were signed in Toronto, Ont., August 3. James Keenan of Boston, the backer of the Pennsylvanian, having traveled to Canada for the purpose of arranging matters as soon as possible. The race is to be rowed over what is known as the "Island course," three miles with a turn, between the hours of three and seven P. M. on Saturday, Aug. 13, and it is stipulated that if the water should not be in suitable condition for rowing at that time, then the articles are to be considered canceled and the match off, for the reason that Hanlan is to start for Australia on July 17. Hanlan agrees to pay all of his opponent's legitimate expenses while in Toronto, with railroad fares there and back.

HAMM VS. O'CONNOR.—A match has been made between Albert Hamm of Boston, Mass., and William O'Connor of Toronto, Ont., who are to row three miles with a turn, on Burlington Bay, Hamilton, Can., on Aug. 23, for five hundred dollars a side. Good weather and water are stipulated for, the referee to be the judge of the same, and to have power to postpone the contest to the first fair day after the date set. Each side posted $200 at the time of signing the agreement, and the second and final deposit, $300 a side, is to be put up on the 16th inst. James Keenan of Boston is the backer of Hamm.

A SWIMMING MATCH took place on the Ohio River, from one pier of the Newport Railroad Bridge to the Kentucky pier of the Cincinnati Suspension Bridge, July 31. The contestants were Frank Dresselhaus and Harry Johnson of Cincinnati, and the former came off victor by almost a quarter of a mile, his time being forty-two minutes.

THE Sandy Bay Yacht Club held their second regatta at Rockport, Mass., Aug. 1, with the following result: First class—Black Cloud first, Prince Kari second. Second class—Expert first, Good Luck second. Third class—Alpine first, Laura second. During a great part of the time it was a drifting contest.

A SCULLERS' RACE, open to all, three miles, $1,000 to first, $700 to second, $500 to third and $300 to fourth, will be rowed at Pleasant Point, Onondaga Lake, Aug. 13. A number of prominent oarsmen will compete.

VICTORIES FOR THE VOLUNTEER.

The New Sloop Leads the New York Squadron, and Wins the Goelet Cup.

The two-score yachts participating in the annual cruise of the New York Yacht Club started from New London, Ct., for Newport, R. I., on the morning of Aug. 4, the starting signal being given at 9.39 o'clock. The weather was far from favorable for a good test of the sailing qualities of the vessels, the wind being very light from eastward at the time of starting, and freshening but little at any time during the run, which was one of the slowest ever made between those points. In one respect the result of the race to Newport was satisfactory, however, and that is that the sloop which is depended upon to prevent the America Cup from leaving our shores this year, the Volunteer, proved better than any of her competitors, being first to cast anchor in the harbor, after leading almost from the start, and defeating the Puritan by over seven minutes. Her actual sailing time was 8h. 18m. 40s., that of the Puritan being 8m. 26m. 1s; Atlantic, 8h. 28m. 25s.; Mayflower, 9h. 15m. 23s. On the following day the race for the Goelet Cups, open to sloops and schooners of the New York and Eastern Yacht Clubs was sailed. The schooner prize is valued at $1,000, and that for sloops at $500. The race was governed by the sailing rules of the former club, and the course was triangular in shape and forty-and-one-half miles in length. There were twenty-one boats in the fleet of starters, of which all but seven were single-stickers, including the Volunteer, Puritan, Mayflower, Atlantic and Priscilla, and in the contest between the vessels named centered the interest felt by yachtsmen and others in the result. The wind was tolerably fresh in the early morning, increasing in strength to some extent afterwards, and as it held steady throughout the race, a fair test of the powers of the contesting boats was had, under slightly varying conditions. The Puritan was the first to cross the line drawn between the red buoy off Beaver Tail and the flagship, and she continued to lead until the Sow and Pigs Lightship was almost made, where for a time the yachts sailed in an annoying fog-bank. Here the Volunteer, which had been ninth to go over the line, nearly four minutes after the Puritan, but had been gradually gaining, got in front and was first around the Lightship at 12.47:56, the Puritan following at 1.03:25, Mayflower 1.04:01, Atlantic 1.10:55 Bedouin 1.11.45, and Priscilla 1.12:45. In the run to this point the Volunteer beat the Puritan 9m. 11s., the Mayflower 4m. 16s., the Atlantic 11m. 9s., and the Priscilla 16m. 56s. From here the fleet headed for the Hen and Chickens, four and a half nautical miles away, and here the light wind favored the Puritan, as compared with the Mayflower, and she regained second place, which had been taken from her by the latter in rounding the Sow and Pigs. She could not reduce the lead obtained by the Volunteer, however, the new sloop astonishing every one by the manner in which she got through the water at this stage of the contest. In the run from the Hen and Chickens to the finish, off Brenton's Reef Lightship, however, the Mayflower outsailed the Puritan and secured second position, while the Atlantic also overhauled the Puritan. The order and time of finish is shown in the appended table:

Resolute	5 46 53	Not m'd

The Volunteer beat the Mayflower 8m. 42s., the Atlantic 10m. 33s., the Puritan 10m. 53s., and the Priscilla 18m. 44s. In the run from the Hen and Chickens to the goal the winner beat the Puritan 1m. 19s., the Mayflower 2m. 58s., the Atlantic 3m. 22s., and the Priscilla 5m. 53s. The Mayflower rather disappointed her admirers, but when her present sailing master knows her better the vessel will doubtless give a more satisfactory account of herself than she did on this occasion.

At 10.34:30 A. M. on the 6th the fleet set sail for Vineyard Haven, forty-two miles distant, the weather being clear, with a wholesail breeze from south-southwest, which enabled the yachts to make their destination in one long reach. The squadron now numbered forty-four vessels, while the Atlantic was not among the lot that sailed away so gaily from Brenton's Reef Lightship. The four big sloops carried fore-staysails, jibs, jib-topsails and club-topsails. The Mayflower led the other three across the line at 10.43:14, the Puritan following at 10.48:20, the Volunteer at 10.50:03 and the Priscilla at 11.01:54. The Mayflower was leading when the Sow and Pigs Lightship was passed, at 12.34:25, while the Volunteer was second, at 12.39:00, the latter having gained 2m. 14s. on the Mayflower and 2m. 13s. on the Puritan, the latter having lost some distance by attempting to get well to windward of the Volunteer by luffing. The wind afterwards shifted to south and later on to southwest, increasing in force also. By hugging the Martha's Vineyard shore, the Mayflower and Puritan received material benefit from the change in the direction of the wind, and they were enabled to draw away from the steel sloop, which by parting company with the others and going off to leeward met a strong tide, which retarded her progress and compelled her to rest content with third place at the finish. The Mayflower was first to reach the goal, her sailing time being 3h. 49m. 25s.; Puritan second, 3h. 53m. 43s.; Volunteer third, 3h. 54m. 12s.; Fanny fourth, 4h. 18m. 20s.; Priscilla fifth, 4h. 27m. 6s. The Mayflower thus beat the Puritan by 4m. 18s. and the Volunteer by 4m. 47s. The schooner Sachem, tenth to cross the starting line, finished second, in 3h. 50m. 24s.

GREAT HEAD YACHT CLUB.—This Massachusetts club held another regatta Aug. 6. The wind during the first half of the race blew lightly from the southwest, after which there were two squalls which livened matters on board of the yachts considerably. Result: First class, six miles—Nellie D. first, in 1h. 17m. 12s., corrected time; Hector second, 1h. 20m. 6s.; Etta May third, 1h. 34m. 11s. Second class, five miles—Victor first, 1h. 18m. 44s.; Topsy second, 1h. 27m. 56s.; Evelyn third, 1h. 29m. 26s. Third class, five miles—Mischief first, 1h. 16m. 43s.; Flirt second, 1h. 24m. 53s.; Thera third, 1h. 25m. 46s.

THE Lake Yacht Racing Association held a regatta at Oswego, N. Y., Aug. 4. There were thirteen contestants, and the regatta was one of the best yet held under the auspices of the organization. A strong but unsteady southwest wind prevailed, and several mishaps occurred. Result: Class A, thirty miles—Oriole first, in 4h. 10m. 22s.; Atalanta second, 4h. 12m. 28s. First class, twenty miles—Garfield first, 4h. 54m. 52s.; White Wings second, 4h. 56m. 16s. Second class—Merle first, 3h. 6m. 8s.; Iolanthe second, 3h. 16m. 7s.

HULL YACHT CLUB.—Eight boats competed in the second championship regatta held this season by the Hull (Mass.) Yacht Club on Aug. 6. The weather was highly unfavorable, the wind being very light and variable, with occasional calms, so that progress was slow, and some of the vessels always had better wind than others, thus preventing a fair test of ability. Result: Second class—Centreboards: Posy first, Polly second; keels: Banneret first, Kitty second. Third class—Em-Ell-Eye won.

A PROFESSIONAL REGATTA is announced to take place at Watkins, N. Y., Aug. 24, 25. It is expected that Teemer, Hamm, Bubear, Courtney and others will compete for the prizes, consisting of $400 to the winner, $200 to second and $100 to third.

THE Sippecan Yacht Club sailed the first open regatta of their season at Marion, Mass., on Aug. 6. The starters were numerous, the weather favorable and an excellent day's sport was enjoyed. MISSOURI AMATEUR ATHLETIC CLUB.

The midsummer games of the above club were held at Union Park, St. Louis, July 30, and were largely attended, notwithstanding the intense heat, which was unpleasant to all but the thinly-clad athletes. The presence of W. C. Adams of the Manhattan A. C. among the performers lent additional interest to the meeting, but the expectations of the New Yorker were not realized, he suffering defeat in each of the events in which he was a starter. If distance and timing were correct and the track level, then the result of the hundred-yards race shows Murphy to be the equal in speed of any other amateur sprinter in the country. Result: One-hundred-yards run—First heat: George Markel, 9¼yds. start, first, in 10⅗s.; A. J. Helmich, 6yds., second, by half a yard. Second heat: Charles Felton, 6yds., first, in 10⅗s.; W. J. Fletcher, second by a yard. Third heat: Joseph A. Murphy, scratch, first, in 10s.; Wm. A. Pierce, 3½yds., second, by a yard; W. C. Adams, scratch, third. Final heat: Murphy first, in 10s; Felton second, by six inches. Pole-vaulting—Wm. Aristi, allowed 9in., first, 8ft. 5in.; Herman Weinecke, scratch, second. Tug-of-war—Central Turnverein team beat the Shamrock Football Club team. 220yds. run—First heat: Charles Felton, 14yds., first, in 24s.; Ed. Klein, 17yds., second, by a yard. Second heat: Jas. A. Murphy, scratch, first, in 23⅕s.; W. C. Adams, scratch, second, by two yards. The New Yorker took the lead, and opened a gap of six feet, but when in the straight for home Murphy overhauled him and won with comparative ease. Third heat: John Wynne, 16yds., first, in 23⅕s.; John Herget, 17yds., second. Fourth heat: Orion Ring, 17yds., first, in 23⅕s.; Herman Weinecke, 20yds., second. Final heat: Felton first, in 23s.; Murphy second, by six inches; Wynne, third, a foot behind. One-mile walk—Otto Hassel, Chicago Athletic Club, first, in 8m. 37s.; Ed. Gaines second. Hammer-throw—Paul Weiss first, 68ft. 8in. One-mile run—D. G. Trench, Chicago A. C., 45yds., first, in 4m. 46s.; Phelim Toole, 80yds., second, by ten yards. Hurdle race, 220yds.—W. J. Fletcher, 3yds., first, in 31m. 8s.; George Marks, 10yds., second. Three-legged race—Ed. Klein and Arnold Hellmich won. Steeplechase, three-fifths of a mile—Herman Weinecke first, John C. Meyer second.

MONTREAL BEATS BOSTON.—The initial match between the touring team of the Boston Lacrosse Club with a Canadian team was played in Montreal Aug. 6, their opponents being the Montreal Club. The match was on the two-half-hour system, and was won by the Montrealers, who took the first and second games in seven and five minutes, respectively, Boston the third in twenty-six minutes, and the fourth was not concluded when time was called. The visitors were entertained at dinner at he Windsor that night.

LEWIS DEFEATS GIBBS.—A large crowd was present at the Clay-avenue Theatre, Muskegon, Mich., Aug. 2, to witness the mixed wrestling match between Evan Lewis and W. E. Gibbs. The contestants were very unevenly matched, Lewis weighing thirty-five pounds more than Gibbs. The match was best three in five falls, for $100 and gate receipts. The first fall, catch-as-catch-can, was won by Lewis in nine minutes and fifty seconds. Gibbs won the second, Græco-Roman, in four minutes and fifty-six seconds. Lewis won the third, catch-as-catch-can, in three minutes, and the fourth, Græco-Roman in five minutes and ten seconds. Gibbs showed himself to be a well-skilled athlete, and would have made a better showing had he not been so greatly overmatched. The success of the entertainment was largely due to the efforts of Charles Dunn and Jno. Petrie.

HOSE COUPLING.—A match at hose coupling is to take place at the rink in Gloversville, N. Y., Aug. 10, 11, under the auspices of the Neptune Hose Company, George R. Brett of Decatur, Ill., being pitted against A. Anderegg and Charles R. Krause of Gloversville, for $50 and the gate receipts. The contest will be a side-and-side one, the winner of the most heats in both nights to take the purse and gate-money. The run will be fifty feet, to carry pipe. On the first night Brett will be on scratch, his opponents being allowed a start of ten feet, and the men to go till one side wins ten heats. On the second night Brett will stand behind the six-foot mark, Anderegg and Krause three feet from the coupling; to win ten heats, both teams holding pipe over head; also, five heats same as first night.

THE STATEN ISLAND ATHLETIC CLUB will hold a series of amateur games, open to all, at their grounds at West Brighton, S. I., on Sept. 5, the same forming part of the celebration of the club's birthday anniversary. There will also be a lacrosse match on the same day, the contesting clubs being the champion team of Canada and the New Yorks.

A MATCH at lacrosse between the Capital Club of Ottawa and Shamrocks of Montreal was an attractive item on the programme of the sports held by the St. Andrew's Society of the former place at the Metropolitan Grounds, Aug. 3. The result was a bitter disappointment to the admirers of the local team, who were beaten in three straight games, won in 15m., 2m. 30s., and 4m. 30s., respectively. On the same day an exhibition match was played at Grimsby Park by the Athletics of St. Catherines and the Brantfords of Brantford, the former team being successful in three of the four games played.

FORESTERS' GAMES.—The annual picnic and games of the Court Damon, No. 7,291, Ancient Order of Foresters, will be held at Caledonian Park, Jersey City, on Tuesday, Aug. 16. S. R. ATKINS, with a start of ninety yards, beat E. C. Carter, scratch, in a two-mile race at the games of the Thespian Cricket Club, in London, Eng., July 22. Atkins won by ten yards, in the good time of 9m. 37s., but had not Carter pulled up when he saw he could not win, the distance between them at the close would have been considerably less.

THE Orange (N. J.) Turn Verein held their annual picnic at Scheutzen Park on Aug. 1, and it was attended by a large crowd of merrymakers. A feature was the prize turning by the juniors, in which J. Mitchell won the first prize, L. Samuelsohn, G. Samuelsohn, G. Weiner and C. Jaqui taking silver medals. The bowling prizes were won by A. Fischer, A. Doelscher and C. Waag.

C. G. WOOD, the famous English amateur sprinter, has been attacking the records again. At the sports of the Thespian Cricket Club, held on July 22, he won his trial heat in the 220yds. run in 21⅘s., and in the final he covered the distance in 21⅗s. Wood is a magnificent specimen of a runner, standing 5ft. 10¾in. and weighing when fit 186lb.

A RACE of one hundred yards, for $250 a side, between William Hough of Niles, O., and Frank McDonald, the colored sprinter of Beaver Falls, came off at the latter place on Aug. 2, McDonald, who received a start of two and a half yards, winning by a couple of feet.

W. B. PAGE and Kelley, the Irish athlete, tied in the running high-jump at the Irish championship games, held at Mallow last week, each clearing the bar at a height of 6ft. 1½in. Kelley refused to jump off the tie, and Page was declared the winner of the competition.

THE Manhattan Athletic Club of this city will hold their Fall open amateur games on Saturday, Sept. 10, instead of the 24th, the change of date being made to enable members of the club to compete at the Canadian championship meeting on Sept. 24.

JAMES FAULKNER, the wrestler, was at last accounts slowly recovering from an attack of malarial fever, which confined him to his bed in San Francisco for some weeks. We understand that he is already tired of his situation as teacher to the Olympic Club of that city, and may be expected East in a short time.

T. CONNEFF won the four miles race for the championship of Ireland at Ball's Bridge, near Dublin, July 23, and in doing so he beat the amateur record for the Emerald Isle, covering the distance in 20m. 55⅘s. The previous best record was 21m. 12s.

THE Acme Athletic Club of San Francisco, Cal., moved into their new quarters, on the corner of Harrison and Fourteenth streets, recently. It is needless to say that they are much superior to those formerly occupied by the club.

A GO-AS-YOU-PLEASE RACE of four hours per day for six days is to commence at Easton, Pa., Oct. 24. Entries are to be sent to W. R. Parks, Centre square, Easton.

MATT. GREEN of Green and Marco recently ran fourteen miles and seven laps in an hour and forty minutes at Aspen, Col. He was then compelled by sickness to leave the track.

CHARLES DILWORTH of Belfast, Me., is in St. Barnabas Hospital, Minneapolis, Minn. Ten days ago he was signed by the Oshkosh club management as a pitcher, and $100 was sent him as advance-money. He left Belfast and went to Boston, where traces of him were lost until he turned up Aug. 2 at the Miller House, St. Paul. Something was the matter with him, and at first it was thought he had been on a prolonged spree, and the following evening he came to Minneapolis with the club in that singular condition. He became raving insane, and after been taken to the lockup for safe keeping was finally sent to St. Barnabas Hospital for treatment. It is the belief of members of the team that he was sand-bagged in Boston, as he struck Minneapolis without a cent of money. The blow has affected his mind, and when the fit is on him the scene of the attack is recalled.

SECRETARY WHITE of the International League has given a very sensible reply to the question concerning the missing of a catch to effect a double-play. He says: "It is extremely difficult to judge whether the ball is dropped purposely or accidentally muffed, and for the benefit of all concerned, the following is the recognized rule in all principal leagues and associations, viz.: In all cases when the inducement is so great to muff the ball, to enable a double-play to be made, the umpires are instructed to call the batter out on a fly, in case the ball comes in contact with a player's hands before touching the ground." The only legal method of playing this point is to let the ball go to the ground and smother it as it rebounds.

PRESIDENT VON DER AHE of the St. Louis Club wants to arrange an interesting series of games at the end of the season. He desires the leaders in the Association and League to play among themselves, and the clubs holding second place to play among themselves; then the champions of the Association to play the second club in the League, and then head of the League to play the second club in the Association. He says he would like to see the New York Club win the pennant in the League. Von der Ahe thinks he would stand a better show of beating New York than Chicago.

THE WESTERN LEAGUE held a meeting Aug. 2 in Kansas City, Mo., to fill the vacancy caused by the withdrawal of the St. Joseph Club. The Emporia Club was notified by telegraph that it could come in on the basis of a $65 guarantee per game to visiting clubs. The meeting then adjourned. If Emporia declines the offer, it is highly likely that Wichita will be dropped.

THE New York team, which is to play in California this Winter, it is said, will consist of Keefe, pitcher; Brown, catcher; Connor, Richardson and Denny on the bases; Ward, short-stop, and Ewing, Gore and Tiernan in the outfield. Such a team will draw vast crowds in the Pacific coast cities. Richardson and Ewing will be the change pitcher and catcher.

A PHILADELPHIA PAPER named Ward, Ferguson and Caylor as likely candidates for President Wikoff's position. The fact is that Wikoff will be re-elected at the annual meeting of the American Association, as he is a perfectly reliable and a desirable man for the position.

IN Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 1, Edward J. Flynn, who was a member of the Cleveland team early in the season, made his first appearance with the home-team and met with a misfortune, breaking his left leg at the ankle in sliding to second base. He will not play again this year.

TEBEAU of the Cincinnatis recently insulted Umpire Curry in disputing a decision, and he was fined $25. As the club refused to pay the fine for him, knowing he merited the punishment, Tebeau declined to act as coacher, and in consequence he has been laid off without pay.

AN exciting contest took place Aug. 3 at Staten Island, N. Y., the Staten Island team then defeating the Bergen Points by a score of 3 to 0. Stagg and Tyng were in fine form in the box, a total of only three safe hits being made by both clubs.

A NOVEL contest is announced to take place Aug. 20 at the Polo Grounds, teams of the United Labor Party then cotending. Edward McGlynn and other speakers will make addresses at the conclusion of the game.

WALTER SPALDING, in a letter to his brother, denies in toto the statement that Flint had broken his pledge. Flint has consulted a lawyer about punishing the Chicago paper which published the falsehood.

THE CINCINNATIS won only seven games out of their twenty with Brooklyn in 1886. This year they have already beaten Brooklyn nine out of fourteen.

STOCKWELL, the catcher of the St. Paul Club, had caught in no fewer than sixty-five championship games up to Aug. 5. Boyle of the St. Louis Browns had caught in thirty-two successive games.

THE St. Louis team will miss the valuable services of Caruthers, alike in the box and in the field, who was left in Philadelphia owing to an attack of illness threatening typhoid fever.

MANAGER BARNIE of the Baltimore Club says that Davis gives him a great deal of trouble. Davis is likely to be superseded by Esterbrook and suspended for the season, a punishment he richly deserves.

MEMBERS of Paterson and Newark Lodges of Elks contended in a marathon game Aug. 4 in Newark, N. J. The visitors, who won by a score of 11 to 7, distinguished themselves by making a triple-play.

DETROIT has no fewer than twenty-two men on its pay-roll, of which eight are pitchers. The result is costly experimental games with very little team work.

THE DIRECTORS of the Nashville Club decided on Aug. 6 to withdraw from the Southern League and release all its players.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION.

Metropolitan vs. Cincinnati.

Only eight innings were played Aug. 2 at Staten Island, N. Y., the Mets then defeating the Cincinnatis for the third time. This result was due to a rally at the bat in the seventh inning, when the home-team scored four runs off a like number of safe hits, including a two-bagger by Gerhardt. The Mets made three runs in their half of the ninth inning, but as the Cincinnatis were anxious to catch a train for the West the game was called.

Baltimore vs. Louisville.

An error by Davis gave the Louisvilles three runs and the victory Aug. 2 in Baltimore, Md. It was the sixth successive victory of the series, and the Louisvilles thereby obtained third place in the championship race. Both pitchers did good work, there being but five safe hits made off Chamberlain, who was supported by almost perfect fielding. Wolf was credited with several difficult catches, and Werrick made a great one-handed stop.

Athletic vs. Metropolitan.

The eighth game was played Aug. 3 in Philadelphia, Pa., the home-team then securing their sixth victory of the series. Cushman was batted hard only in the third inning, when Seward lifted the ball over the left-field fence for a home-run, Bauer and Townsend hit for two-baggers and McGarr made a single, the result being four runs, three of which were earned. Wild pitching and poor fielding in the first and fifth innings yielded six unearned runs to the home-team. In the eighth inning the Mets bunched four safe hits, including a three-baser by Nelson, and two-baggers by Orr and Hankinson, and, with the aid of two bases on balls, scored six runs.

Mays was batted hard Aug. 4, Bauer leading with five successive safe hits. In the first and eighth innings the Athletics bunched six safe hits for four earned runs. Seward kept the Mets from making more than five safe hits, three of which were scored in the ninth inning. A great stop by Bauer back of second-base converted a seemingly safe hit into an out. Remarkable running catches were made by Larkin, O'Brien and Nelson in the outfield. Holbert was ill and gave way to Sommers in the eighth inning.

It required ten innings for the Athletics to defeat the Mets Aug. 5. The visitors took the lead at the outset and held it until the eighth inning, when the home-team tied the score on a two bagger by Mann and a single by Larkin. The Athletics won in the tenth, when a single by Poorman and successive two-baggers by Lyons, Mann and Larkin let in three earned runs. The Mets batted Weyhing freely during the first six innings. Sommers' fine throwing to the bases was the chief feature.

The Athletics defeated the Metropolitans for the ninth time Aug. 6. Mays was batted freely, Lyons and Mann each making four safe hits. Seward held the Mets down to six safe hits. Mann also distinguished himself at centre-field, where he retired seven men, four of them by difficult running catches. Gerhardt made a wonderful stop of a seemingly safe hit, and Orr captured one-handed a sharp liner.

Athletic vs. St. Louis.

Mathews made his reappearance in the box for the Athletics Aug. 2, in Philadelphia, Pa., and, although he was batted hard and often by the St. Louis, the hits, with a few exceptions, were made after chances had been offered to retire the side without scoring. The support given Mathews was wretched, a catch of a foul fly by Milligan, and the second-base play of Bauer being the redeeming features. Caruthers was taken sick in the third inning, and Hudson took his place. The champions led throughout, and easily secured their tenth victory of the series. Stovey did not play with the Athletics, on account of the death of his father.

Louisville vs. Cleveland.

A stubbornly-contested game took place Aug. 4 in Louisville, Ky., the home-team then earning their sixth victory of the series. The score stood a tie until the last half of the ninth inning, when singles by Wolf and Werrick and a wild pitch allowed the Louisvilles to make the winning run with only one man out. The visitors were unable to bat Ramsey, making but seven safe hits, which were widely scattered.

The long lead thus gained was held throughout. The visitors fielded faultlessly, taking part in four brilliant double-plays, Corkhill assisting in two by remarkably accurate throws. Foutz and McPhee excelled in batting for their respective teams, the former getting a three-baser and a two-bagger.

Foutz also pitched effectively, but was poorly supported in the third and seventh innings, when the visitors scored five unearned runs. Sylvester made a long running catch that started a brilliant double-play. Baldwin was hurt in the ninth inning, a foul tip cutting a deep gash in his forehead.

Louisville vs. Cincinnati.

The tenth game was played Aug. 7 in Louisville, Ky., the Cincinnatis then securing their third victory of the series. The score stood tied from the first to the seventh inning, when safe hits by Mack, Collins and Hecker gave the home-team two runs and the lead. Nicol was hit by a pitched ball in the ninth, and a three-bagger by McPhee and a single by Fennelly enabled the visitors to tie the score. After two men were out in the last half of the eleventh inning, errors by Werrick and Ramsey gave the Cincinnatis the winning run.

An exciting contest took place Aug. 6 in St. Louis, Mo. The visitors batted King freely, but their hits were scattering except in the second inning, when they earned two runs. Serad kept the home-team from scoring more than seven safe hits, four of which were credited to Latham. Serad, however, hit two men in the eighth inning, and a timely two-bagger by Comiskey then yielded three runs and the victory to the St. Louis.

Six safe hits, including a three-bagger by Mack, were then bunched, and, aided by errors by Reccius and Carroll, no fewer than seven runs were scored by the Louisvilles. A muff by Cook gave the visitors their only run.

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Chicago vs. New York.

Another exciting contest took place Aug. 6, in Chicago, Ill., the New Yorks then reversing the result of the preceding day. Errors by Gore, Ward and Richardson, and five safe hits—including a home run by Sullivan—gave the home-team six unearned runs in the third and fourth innings. Welch was hit but twice safely during the remainder of the game. The visitors tied the score in the fifth inning, when they bunched four safe hits, and were aided by a fumble by Pfeffer, and two bases on balls. Wild pitching by Van Haltren in the eighth inning, gave the winning run to the New Yorks. A wonderful catch was made by Sunday.

Timely and hard hitting helped the home-team to escape another defeat Aug. 8. Keefe pitched effectively, except in the sixth and eighth innings, when the Chicagos bunched eight safe hits, including a home-run by Pfeffer, and, aided by an error by Ward and a base on balls, secured then nine runs and the victory. Clarkson did great work in the box at critical points. The umpiring again was against the New Yorks, Doescher giving the Chicagos two runs in the second inning, when a throw by Ewing caught Pfeffer napping at first-base.

Fogarty retired no fewer than eight men, cutting off four seemingly safe hits far into right-centre. Cahill made a wonderful running left-hand catch. Of the six safe hits made by the home-team, two were three-basers and three were two-baggers.

Ten innings were necessary Aug. 6 in Detroit, Mich., the Bostons scoring their fifth victory of the series. The home-team pounded Radbourn with ease, but their hits were scattering, except in the first inning, when they obtained a long lead. The Bostons, making a plucky uphill fight, tied the score on a home-run by Nash in the ninth inning, and made the winning run in the tenth.

LONG BRANCH RACES.

Large Crowds at the Course—The Bard Retrieves his Reputation.

Another heavy rainstorm, continuing all the afternoon, made everybody who went to the track on Tuesday, August 2, very uncomfortable, transformed the track into a sea of slippery mud, and caused many of the horses to be scratched, thus detracting from the interest felt in the racing and upsetting the calculations of many who had made up their minds as to the horse they would back. However it was a good day for the "talent" as four of the six favorites came out all right. There was no rain in the city during the day, and as the prospect of an afternoon of excellent sport was held out, the crowd that went down was large. S. S. Brown's Stuyvesant had received a special preparation for the Newark Stakes, in the expectation of meeting the renowned Hanover, and his owner and backers of the stable were confident that the latter could not give him the required nineteen pounds and win; consequently they were prepared to back him freely, with the expectation of winning handsomely. The defeat of the great crack by Laggard on the Saturday previous, however, caused his withdrawal and left the race at the mercy of Stuyvesant, who was a hot favorite and won like breaking sticks. Result: Handicap sweepstakes, $25 each, $750 added, $150 to second, one mile—Davis & Hall's Bess, 4—112, J. McLaughlin, the favorite, first, in 1:45; Eolian, 4—110, Hayward, second, by a head; Richmond, 5—117, Shauer, third, two lengths away..... The Seabright Stakes, for two-year-olds, $50 each, $1,500 added, $500 to second, penalties and allowances, six furlongs—Melbourne stable's Gallifet, 105, Church, first, in 1:16¼; Fordham, 110, J. J. Flynn's Young Duke, 6—122, Garrison, the favorite, first, in 1:17½; Editor, 5—111, J. McLaughlin, second, by half a length; Miss Mouse, 4—86, Weber, third, four lengths behind.....Purse $500, a handicap steeplechase, over the short course—J. H. McGreery's Soudan, 4—130, Mara, the favorite, first, in 3:18; Retribution, 5—126, Callahan, second, by five lengths; Harry Mann, aged, 140, M. Lynch, third, six lengths behind.

A great crowd went to the course on Thursday to witness the meeting of The Bard, Trobadour, Barnum, and possibly Volante, in the race for the Freehold Stakes. On the strength of his previous defeats of the Longfellow colt on the same track, Troubadour was made a strong favorite for the event, although The Bard had many supporters among those who did not regard those races as true run. Volante did not start, and big odds were offered against old Barnum, who, however, ran a much better race than had been expected. The result was a reversal of the verdict obtained when the two great rivals met before, The Bard winning by four lengths, after laying back and letting Troubadour make the pace, which was fast only during the last half-mile. That the favorite was not at his best was patent to all, due to the fact that, owing to the condition of his forelegs, his trainer could not give him the necessary preparatory work. He walked quite lame after the contest, and it is very doubtful if he will ever start in a race again, although he may run for the rich Champion Stakes on Saturday of this week, for which The Bard, Volante, Barnum and others are entered. Result: Handicap sweepstakes, for two-year-olds, $25 each, $750 added, $150 to second, six furlongs—R. W. Walden's Omaha, 110, W. Hayward, the favorite, first, in 1:18; Long Branch, 113, McGoldrick, second, by a length and a half; Slumber, 106, Anderson, third, by less than a length.....The Elizabeth Stakes, for three-year-old fillies, $50 each, $1,500 added, $500 to second, penalties and allowances, a mile and a furlong—S. S. Brown's Sunbeam, 103, Church, the favorite, first, in 1:59½; Tarbouche, 103, W. Donohue, second, by half a dozen lengths; Connemara, 113, McCarthy, third, a length away..... The Freehold Stakes, for three-year-olds and upwards, $100 each, h. f., $1,500 added, $500 to second, allowances, a mile and a half—A. J. Cassatt's The Bard, 4—118, W. Hayward, first, in 2:39; Barnum, aged, 118, Fitzpatrick, second, by four lengths; Troubadour, 5—120, Garrison, the favorite, third, a length behind. Troubadour took the lead soon after the fall of the flag, Hayward's orders being to allow the latter to make the running this time, and when the stand was passed a length and a half separated the pair, with Barnum three lengths in the rear. Going around the Eatontown turn Hayward moved forward with his mount, and at the end of the mile the favorite was only a head in front, Barnum two lengths behind. The rivals were abreast as they turned into the homestretch, while Barnum was hardly more than a length back. When fairly straightened out for the run in The Bard was given his head, and at once took the lead, despite the urging of Garrison, who began riding Troubadour for all that was in him. At a furlong from home there was a length between them, and going on, this was increased to four at the finish; while Fitzpatrick managed to rush Barnum past the favorite and capture second money, greatly to the delight of the few who had the courage to back the old horse at odds of 7 to 5 for a place. The usual scene of wild excitement ensued, the winner and his jockey coming in for an enthusiastic reception.....Handicap sweepstakes, for horses that had run this year and not won, $25 each, $500 added, $100 to second, one mile—Tremont Stable's Pontico, 4—112, McCarthy, the favorite, first, in 1:46; Belvidere, 3—98, Church, second, by a short head; Easter Sunday, 5—113, Brennan, third, eight lengths away.....Purse $500, for three-year-olds and upwards, selling allowances, seven furlongs—R. Tucker's Editor, 5—115, Garrison, first, in 1:31½; Miss Mouse, 3—87, Weber, second, by two lengths; Grenadier, 5—105, McCarthy, the favorite, third, close up.....Purse $500, handicap hurdle race, a mile and a half—M. T. Danaher's Referee, aged, 152, Mara, the favorite, first, in 2:54½; Soudan, 4—139, Tallman, second, by two lengths; Sam Emery, 6—132, Whyburn, third, by the same distance.

One of the most disagreeable days experienced by race-goers since the meeting here opened was that of Saturday, 6. Rain fell during the morning, continuing with intermissions after the first race, making the track heavy and slippery, while the extreme sultriness of the atmosphere served to compiete the discomfort of the crowd. Fortunately, for the Association, there was no rain in the city until after the last train had departed for the course; consequently the customary large half-holiday assemblage was present, the number reaching close upon ten thousand. Some consolation for the unpleasantness of the weather was derived from the excellence of the racing, two of the events producing very close finishes, Kingston defeating Laggard by a head for the Palisade Stakes (the third win in succession of this event by the Dwyers' stable) and Gallifet snatching victory from Now or Never in the race for the Redbank Stakes. The victory of Kingston was cleverly won by McLaughlin over his special rival Garrison, and furnished additional evidence that Hanover was not himself when beaten by Laggard just a week previously. Result: Handicap sweepstakes for all ages, $25 each, $750 added, $150 to second, seven furlongs—A. J. Cassatt's Eolian, 4—109, W. Hayward, first, in 1:31; Kaloolah, 4—112, Church, second, by a length and a half; Headlad, 4—103, Neumeyer, third, three lengths behind....., The Redbank Stakes, for two-year olds, $50 each, h. f., $1,500 added, $500 to second, six furlongs—Melbourne Stable's Gallifet, 115, Garrison, favorite, first, in 1:18; Now or Never, 108, Church, second, by a head; Fordham, 115, J. McLaughlin, third, by two lengths.....The Palisade Stakes, for three-year-olds, $50 each, $1,500 added, $500 to second, penalties and allowances, a mile and a furlong—Dwyer Bros.' Kingston, 111, J. McLaughlin, the favorite, first, in 2:02; Laggard, 112½, Garrison, second, by a head; Connemara, 101, R. Hyslop, third, two lengths away. .....Handicap sweepstakes, all ages, $35 each, $1,000 added, $250 to second, a mile and a half—H. J. Woodford's Barnum, aged, 122, Fitzpatrick, the favorite, first, in 2:45; Eurus, 4—115, Hayward, second, by a length; Perona, 4—92, Neumeyer, third, ten lengths away.....Seaside Welter Handicap, $25 each, $600 added, $100 to second, six furlongs—A. Belmont's Tarbouche, 3—120, Wm. Donohue, first, in 1:19½; Regulus, 2—107, Wauke, second, by two lengths; Young Duke, 6—153, Garrison, the favorite, third, lapping..... Purse $500, for three-year-olds and upwards, to carry 7lb above the scale, selling allowances, a mile and a sixteenth—G. B. Morris' Phil Lee, 4—113, Church, the favorite, first, in 1:54½; Bonanza, 5—118, Hill, second, by a length; Suitor, 3—94, Anderson, third, two lengths away. .....Purse $600, handicap steeplechase, full course —J. McAdam's Sam Emery, 6—133, W. Ayburn, first, in 5:16; Retribution, 5—125, Callahan, second, by over a length; Jim McGowan, 6—156, M. Daly, third.

The entries for the races run on the 5th were unusually numerous, and as they included a number of very fair horses, a good afternoon's sport was enjoyed by a fair-sized crowd. THE IVES POOL BILL.

The Comptroller having asked the Attorney-General of the State for his interpretation of the Ives Pool bill, was advised as follows last week:

First.—Only societies or associations duly incorporated under a general or special act of the Legislature for the improvement of the breed of horses, or in which improving the breed of horses is one of the objects of the incorporation, are authorized to sell pools under the restriction of the Ives Pool bill; only such societies or associations are obliged to pay the five per centum in gross recepts, and only such societies or associations are in any way affected by the act.

Second.—Said act does not authorize the selling of pools by county and town agricultural societies at their fairs, or impose any tax upon the gross receipts of said societies at said fairs, nor, in fact, does it in any way alter the law as it existed at the time of its passage in reference to said agricultural societies and associations, except as they may benefit from the provisions of the sixth section thereof.

BILLIARDS.

BILLY SEXTON'S ROOM was thrown open to its patrons some days ago, having undergone a complete renovation. Everything is as neat and bright as a new pin, and nothing remains to be done but the completion of the new entrance, when the host will in all probability have a formal opening.

J. RANDOLPH HEISER, after a successful trip, in a pecuniary way, to Long Beach, Newport and Narragansett Pier, starts for the Catskills on a similar venture in a few days.

THE friends of William Sexton will deeply sympathize with him upon the death of his estimable wife at their home in this city on Aug. 1.

MAURICE DALY'S ROOM at 234 Broadway, is closed, and will remain in the hands of workmen, who are putting it in order for the re-opening on Sept. 1.

DUDLEY KAVANAGH of the B. B. C. Co. is enjoying a well-earned holiday at Richfield Springs.

.... The tennis tournament at the Hotel Wentworth, Newcastle, N. H., closed Aug. 5, having been very successful. R. D. Sears, champion, and Slocum played an exhibition game, Sears giving his opponent odds of half fifteen. Not being used to the peculiarities of the ground, Sears was defeated.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER

THE FRANK QUEEN PUBLISHING CO. (Limited), PUBLISHERS.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 13, 1887.

The Volunteer is All Right.

Those who placed faith in the ability of Designer Burgess to improve upon his previous efforts, and relied on the judgment of General Paine when he disposed of the staunch and speedy Mayflower before having put his new sloop, Volunteer, to the test, must have felt deeply gratified upon learning that in the run of the New York Yacht Club fleet from New London to Newport last week the steel sloop showed the way to all her older competitors, including the Mayflower, the Puritan, and the Atlantic, and was first to cast anchor in the harbor. The fact that the wind was very light throughout added to their gratification, indicating as it did that the new craft would not be found wanting when sailing under conditions that have proven not unfavorable to the aspiring cutter Thistle. The race for the Goelet Cups on the following day proved another and more noteworthy triumph for the sloop. In wind that at first was light and subsequently strengthened considerably, she again gave to all a clean view of her stern, outpointing the best of her antagonists, and gaining rapidly in beating to windward. It was a consummate victory, and calculated to restore the confidence that in the breasts of some had been shaken by the victories repeatedly achieved over the fastest English yachts by the Scotch boat now on her way across the Atlantic. The success the Volunteer achieved in her first two races was surprising. After her canvas is stretched, and such slight alterations in sails, rigging, etc., as may be rendered necessary or deemed advisable have been made, and everything works smoothly, it is evident that Americans need not anticipate the loss of the Cup.

The Pugilistic Championship.

The important match between Jacob Kilrain, champion of America, and James Smith, champion of England, for the international P. R. championship and ten thousand dollars, (notice of the ratification of which in London appeared in a former issue), is now fairly under way, and public interest therein is increasing on both sides of the Atlantic. In our Ring department the articles of agreement are given in full, and they will be eagerly perused by those who desire to become acquainted with the precise terms of the first international heavyweight match arranged for decision beyond the ocean since the Mace-Coburn fiasco of twenty-three years ago. A cablegram received by THE CLIPPER from the editor of the London Sporting Life conveys notification that he has forwarded to us one thousand dollars put up by Smith to cover Kilrain's deposit, which was posted at this office at the time the challenge to Smith was issued. The celerity with which the negotiations between the rival champions were brought to a satisfactory culmination has been largely due to the presence in London of the American's backer, which tended to greatly facilitate matters, while the absence of the customary haggling over conditions, and the evident lack of desire on the part of either side to secure any advantage over the other, indicates earnestness and sincerity on the part of both, which augurs well for the future of the match. The attempts of prejudiced parties to belittle the importance of this match are discreditable to themselves, unjust to Kilrain, and will yet work to their injury as fair-minded writers in the estimation of the sporting public, who love fair play.

The Bard On Top.

Troubadour's reign as king of the running turf in the East was of brief duration. It was brought to a close on Thursday last, when The Bard regained the laurels and position he lost to the son of Lisbon at Monmouth Park. This was the fourth meeting of the rivals this season, and the result of the contest left each with two victories to his credit. But the display made by the once mighty Troubadour, who finished behind the iron-limbed Barnum as well, was such as to render it improbable that he will again face the starter. His forelegs have long been unsound, and the work he was obliged to do last week, in an unsuccessful struggle to retain the premiership, affected them to such an extent as to permanently impair their usefulness for racing purposes, and he will doubtless hereafter be allowed to enjoy the fruits of his enviable record by passing his future years as lord of an equine harem.

RALPH TEMPLE, the short-distance rider of the American 'cycling team, knocked out the half-mile bicycle record in England on Thursday last, placing the figures at 1m. 13⅕s. Besides being immense at fancy riding, Temple is a genuine hummer on wheels at any distance under a mile. He has been the most successful of the team members while abroad.

HENRY D. FELTER, one of the best known among the higher class of sporting men of the metropolis, passed away on Aug. 1 at New Baltimore, N. Y. For many years he was proprietor of a place on Broadway that, by reason of the superior quality of the liquid refreshments there dispensed, and the sporting proclivities of the genial landlord, became noted as a favorite resort for gentlemen of special prominence in trotting and billiard circles and other branches of sport.

A TEAM of American cricketers, under the captaincy of Cyril Wilson of the Staten Island Club, will start for a tour through the West Indies on Dec. 12. Demerara, St. Croix, St. Kitts, Martinique, Barbadoes, St. Lucia, Trinidad and Jamaica will be visited in turn, but matches will be played only in Trinidad, Barbadoes, Demerara and Jamaica. The eleven will be the guests of the residents on the different islands. The trip will take fifty days. Places on the team are at a premium.

.... The Hoboken Turtle Club enjoyed a clam bake at Gabe Case's, Jerome Park road, Aug. 4. About 150 lovers of the good things of life partook of the feast, the preparation of which was in the hands of Archie Stalker.

.... The homing pigeon Little Benny arrived in his loft in Boston, Mass., Aug. 1, having flown from Abington, Va., 602 miles. This is the greatest distance flown by a carrier pigeon this season. The bird is the property of Henry Wagner.

CARVER VS. MITCHELL.—Dr. W. F. Carver and W. T. Mitchell engaged in a pigeon-shooting match at the Fair Grounds, Lynchburg, Va., Aug. 3. Each man shot at fifty pigeons, under English rules, and Carver won with a clean score to forty-two for his opponent. They met again on the following day, each man shooting at forty birds, and Mitchell winning by a score of 36 to 35.

L. DAVENPORT won the champion badge of the Fountain Gun Club in their regular shoot at Woodlawn, L. I., Aug. 3. He tied on six birds out of seven shot at with Captain Crammer, 30yds., W. Stewart, 26yds., and A. M. McFarland, 28yds., and in the shoot-off he won by killing half a dozen straight.

.... Tom Sheehan, an old and faithful employe of Adams Express Co., and a war veteran, has met with a sad bereavement in the death of his beloved wife and infant child. HER CHATELAINE.

She wears upon her chatelaine,
Like scalps and trophies of the slain,
Full ten and twenty coins of old
Of jeweled silver and of gold;
With pencil case and gay tablette
And dainty, dangling vinaigrette,
Each shining on its slender chain,
She wears them on her chatelaine.

But high upon a silver ring
There hangs a gruesome silver thing,
A grinning goblin, quaint and old,
With eyes of fire and claws of gold,
Who seems to glare at me and glance
In one unearthly, endless dance,
And mocks me with his calm disdain,
Upon my lady's chatelaine.

He nestles on her curved waist,
With crimson girdle interlaced;
He hears each breath and sigh and start,
He feels each fluttering of her heart,
And oft his wierd and wizened face
Peers from without the creamy lace,
That clusters on her silken dress,
And maps her precious loveliness.

Oh, if the smiles so gay and free,
Bestowed on him, were given to me!
But for one glance so fond and sweet,
I'd lay a kingdom at her feet
He takes it as his right, does he,
While I just drink a cup of tea,
And wish that I his place could gain
To swing upon her chatelaine.

HE STRUCK OIL.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER,
BY BELLE LEWIS.

As he sat down in the front row of the orchestra he presented about as perfect a picture of a young man from the country as could be found tumbling over a hay-rick or rambling in a barnyard. Tall and ungainly, his attire was strictly of the store-clothes order. His coat was of a clamorous blue, and a rainbow necktie persisted in peeping out over the lappels. The trousers were short, and looked as though they had been carved out with a meat ax. Long yellow hair tuckered around his old-style shirt-collar. But his face was a kindly one, and there was something back of his large, keen blue eyes that even a property-man couldn't fathom.

Such was the personal make-up of Jack Munhall, who, for two weeks, had been the talk of the Oriental Vaudeville Theatre attaches. It all came about in this way: Jack hired on a farm with his widowed mother, and hailed from Washington County. He had floated into Pittsburg for a day's outing, and by some chance went to the Oriental Theatre on Monday night. It was a wonderful vision to the lad who had been chasing a plow for the greater part of his life, and the tinsel glitter excited an irresistible fascination. But the biggest fascination was a piquant little serio-comic singer, Belle Addison. When the country lad saw her, to use his own expressive vernacular, "he just cottoned to her," and sat with staring eyes all through the specialty performance, longing to see her bright face once more. Tuesday night saw him in the front row again. This time he had a Brobdignaggian bonquet, and, when the serio-comic sang her song and came out for the encore, Jack plumped the floral wonder on the stage. Belle Addison picked it up and glanced smilingly at the giver, and that set Jack on fire.

Talk about a man being smitten! Why, he was completely gone. Night after night he went to the theatre, and by and by the home people began to be interested and joke about Belle Addison's "mash," and twit her about the countrified admirer. Belle took it all good-naturedly, and finally when, through the kindly offices of a newspaper friend who hailed from his native place, he was introduced to his stage idol, she received him graciously, although laughing in her sleeve. From that day her country lover pestered her with attentions, and on the last day of her engagement he wanted to marry her. She laughed in his face and showed him the door. As he went out, however, there was a look in Jack's eyes that somehow made the little serio-comic singer feel uncomfortable—ashamed, as it were, of having trifled with this honest-hearted yeoman.

Well, the serio-comic went her way, and Jack Munhall traveled back to the old farm in Washington County with a load on his heart. Then there came a time of excitement, a period of feverish speculation, in Washington County. Oil and natural gas had been struck on old Farmer Wood's place in Wildcat Township, and the farmers left their plows in the furrows and went mad with the oil and gas fever. It took a strong grip on Jack Munhall, and he straightway sold several head of cattle and bought drilling tools. The country boy was a sort of Jack-of-all trades, and was soon hammering away at the earth in search of the buried treasure. Oil experts came and went away. They scouted the idea of finding oil on Jack's farm. "It's clean off the belt," said one. "You are wasting time and money," said another. But he kept right at work, and when he had become the laughing stock of the township, why the bit struck the sand, and a great golden stream of oil came rushing up with a mighty roar and blew the drilling tools out of the derrick. Talk about gushers! Why, it poured out hundreds of barrels of oil every twenty-four hours, and Jack Munhall in a day had become a rich man. The farm had turned out a regular gold mine. What was the first thing he did? Why, he went to the bank, and, getting a great wad of money, started out to find the little serio-comic singer. Jack got a different reception when he went to the Oriental Theatre. The manager knew how to draw the line between a farmer boy and a successful oil man. But Belle Addison had left the city; she was playing in Chicago when he last heard of her, the manager said. So Jack set sail for Chicago. He made the round of the theatres and finally learned that the little girl was lying in one of the hospitals sick with fever. Over to the hospital went Jack, and no woman ever received better care than did Belle Addison. When, after long weeks of illness she awoke to consciousness, it was Jack's kindly face that greeted her, and somehow she seemed to feel that she had found a lost jewel. They are married now.

GAME PRESERVE IN THE CATSKILLS.

Hon. Townsend Cox of Glen Cove, L. I., is busy arranging to fence in a park for game in the wilds of the Ulster Catskills. In behalf of the State Forest Commission, Mr. Cox addressed a public meeting at Kingston, N. Y., July 19. He said the pleasant trip he made last Summer through the State forest preserve in Ulster County demonstrated the fact that there were no deer in the Catskill region, the forest lands of which embrace 43,000 acres in Ulster County, 8,000 in Delaware, 3,000 in Sullivan and 800 in Greene. These, with lands owned by private individuals, made a preserve of nearly two hundred thousand acres. Mr. Cox said the project of making a game park in the Catskills excited much attention in New York and elsewhere, particularly in New York, from the fact that a trip to the Catskills could be made so quickly and at such small cost. Mr. Cox asked the people of Ulster County to form an association to protect game, and his suggestion was immediately acted upon. C. M. Preston of Rondout was elected president, and Wallace Smith of Kingston secretary, temporarily. As soon as the location of the park is decided upon ten acres of land will be fenced in, and deer, already promised by private individuals, will be placed within the enclosure. Later a park of one hundred acres will be fenced in and the smaller park used for weak and sickly game. Sheds will be erected to shelter the game in Winter, and several log cabins will be built for the use of the keepers. Great care will be exercised in the selection of the first park. It will be well watered, and will either contain a natural or artificial lake.

ALLIGATORS FIGHT TO A FINISH.

A fierce and bloody fight between alligators was the rare sport witnessed at Coatesville a few days ago by one of the attendants in Dr. Huston's garden, in that borough. Each of the combatants measured over five feet in length, and had been living for eight years peaceably together in a great tank which Dr. Huston had constructed for them near his house. They were natives of Florida, and were brought from that country when small by Dr. Huston. For some weeks, however, the two great reptiles had been showing signs of discontent with each other, but no one anticipated the terrible and fatal termination of this curious quarrel.

One day the attention of the gardener, who was at work near the tank, was attracted by a commotion in the water, and looking up he saw that the two alligators were engaged in a desperate struggle. The man rushed to the spot, but was powerless to stop the fight, which was raging so fiercely that the water was lashed into foam and the greenhouse was splashed in every direction. The largest of the combatants was seeking to get the body of the smaller alligator in his wide-open jaws, but the latter was always too quick to be caught, and moved round and round, striking the big reptile with his tail and sometimes getting his enemy's legs in his jaws and biting them. The tank was soon reddened with the blood which flowed from the wounds inflicted in this curious contest. The gardener attempted to separate the maddened contestants by beating them with a long pole, but they paid no attention to this attempt at diversion, and went on with their fight only more desperately. They rolled over each other, sometimes in the water and at times on the bank in the mud, but always lashing with their tails. The smaller and more agile of the two continued to bite the legs and body of the big alligator, and the latter moved about slowly, seeking to make a successful grab at his opponent's body. Their sleepy eyes had become bright and snappy, and it was evident that the fight was to be to the death. At last, in an effort to snap at the swinging tail of the larger, the small alligator fell over on his side, and before he could get out of the way the big jaws of his enemy were closed upon him with a snap. Then occurred the most curious part of the battle. Raising himself slightly upon his fore feet, the big alligator lifted the smaller one from the surface of the water and shook him as a dog would shake a rat—shook him until it seemed that his tail would be hurled off, and until in fact, his back was broken and he lay dead and limp in those great jaws. Then the big animal dropped the body and moved off to sun himself.—Philadelphia Record.

HOW WOMEN LOSE THEIR HEIGHT.

Women, especially those of the upper classes, who are not obliged to keep themselves in condition by work, lose after middle age—sometimes earlier—a considerable amount of their height, not by stooping, as men do, but by actual collapse, sinking down—mainly to be attributed to the perishing of the muscles that support the frame in consequence of the habitual and constant pressure of stays and dependence upon the artificial support by them afforded. Every girl who wears stays, that press upon these muscles and restrict the free development of the fibers that form them, relieving them from their natural duties of supporting the spine—indeed, incapacitating them from so doing—may feel sure she is preparing herself for a dumpy woman. Failure of health among women when the vigor of youth passes away is but too patent and but too commonly caused by this practice. Most women, from long custom of wearing these stays, are really unaware how much they are hamp red and restricted. A girl of 20, intended by nature to be one of her finest specimens, gravely assures one that her stays are not tight, being exactly the same size as those she was first put into, not perceiving her condemnation in the fact that she has grown five inches in height and two in shoulder breadth. Her stays are not too tight, because the constant pressure has prevented the natural development of the heart and lung space.—Chicago Tribune.

AN INTELLIGENT MULE.

Last year, during the heavy rains, when every stream was swoolen to its utmost, the writer had occasion to visit one of the swamp plantations lying some miles below Augusta on the Savannah River. Upon this hangs our story. Arriving at a gentleman's place whom we knew, we told him we were sorry that the high water would keep us from inspecting his fine swamp timber, having gone there for that purpose. To our surprise, he told us that this need not interfere in the least and that he had an old gray mule that knew the swamps better than he or any one else, and that we could ride her, and if trouble came, whether we got lost or water bound, we must give her the reins and she would bring us home safe, that she could walk a log as good as a dog; that he had on several occasions when these freshets came (his cattle being in the swamps, and in great danger of being drowned) sent this mule after them, saying, "Jane, go bring the cows home." The mule, seeming to understand, would at once start for the swamp. This mule has been known to cross a log when it could not be seen, being two or three feet below the surface. Having done so, she would proceed to herd and collect all the cows. After that she would make a loud bray, and start for the house. The cattle would follow in single file across this log to the master's house.—Augusta (Ga) Gazette.

WARRING OVER TROUT.

Out in the wilds of Ulster County, N. Y., the trout in the Navasink are big and fat, as many sportsmen know. The Navasink Fishing Club is composed of New Yorkers and Philadelphians. A year or so ago they leased ten miles of land along the Navasink, and they posted notices forbidding any one to fish therein without a permit. People who had caught trout thereabout for years paid no heed to the notices. Then the club men stationed guards along the stream and fracases followed. This season the club men hired a number of Frenchmen to patrol the stream, and the foreigners have done so with loaded guns on their shoulders and bulldogs at their heels. Fights and arrests have been of every day occurrence, the Frenchmen have been pounded and ducked into the stream, and the bulldogs have been walloped roundly. The club men say that it is impossible to convict any of the trespassers or the men who commit assaults upon the guardians of the stream, and they propose to have a score or more of Denning people indicted by the next grand jury for aiding and abetting the alleged illegal fishermen. Meanwhile, encounters along the stream occur, and a bloody pitched battle is imminent.

A REMARKABLE DOG.

John Templeton is a blacksmith who owns a fine specimen of the English mastiff. Recently Mr. Templeton was working at his forge, putting a new steel in a pick. The new steel was slightly burned in the heating, and, instead of welding, flew in half a dozen pieces. One piece struck the blacksmith just above the right eye with such force as to fasten itself in firmly. The blacksmith staggered and fell backward. How long he was unconscious he does not know, but when he revived the dog lay almost in the middle of the shop, crying almost like a human being, and rubbing his jaws in the dust of the floor. The piece of steel that had struck Mr. Templeton lay a short distance from the dog. The faithful dog had seized the hot steel with his teeth and drawn it from the frontal bone of Mr. Templeton's head. The dog's mouth was found to be badly burned.—Exchange.

THE CHAMPION BLACKSNAKE.

While out hunting recently in the vicinity of Washington Court House, O., Officers Dixon and McClellan noticed some birds creating a commotion about the trunk of an old dead tree. They investigated the cause of the birds' fright and noticed an object protruding about a foot from the hole in the tree. They fired at the object and it darted back into the hole, not making its appearance again for about fifteen minutes, when, to the surprise of the hunters, a large blacksnake made his exit from the hole and, coiling itself around the tree, began to descend. He saw the men, however, and started up the tree again, when a shot from their shotguns brought him squirming to the ground. They examined his shakeship and found that he had been robbing birds' nests of their young, and at the time had three young birds in his hide. He was measured and found to be nearly ten feet in length.

A CANINE MAIL CARRIER.

Passengers on the Colorado Central morning train for mountain points have their attention called to a two-story mansion across the fields to the south side of the track by the slowing up of the train at this point, which is about one mile east of Golden City. The house attracts because it is the largest thing in the surrounding landscape, but the real object of interest is a fair-sized dog that stands beside the rail and receives mail and papers from the men in the mail and baggage car. The dog is a mixture of Newfoundland and shepherd, and he has stood at this point beside the track every morning for the past five years. He comes down from the house for the mail train only, and he does all the mail-carrying for the Lewis family. Trains pass the house, which is a quarter-mile distant, dozens of times daily, but the dog regards them placidly from the piazza and makes no motion towards them. He understands his business, and attends to it strictly. When the Globe-Democrat correspondent saw him the dog was picking up three papers and a small package of letters. Two of the papers had been thrown from the cars by passengers. The dog picked up one paper and carried it in his mouth and placed it on top of another paper. These two he deposited on the third, and last of all added the letters to the contents of his mouth, when, after a final survey of the ground to make sure that nothing had been missed, he turned his head toward home and ran along gayly waving his tail. Passengers who know the dog sometimes try to fool him by throwing wrapping-paper, torn newspapers or empty envelopes from the train, but the dog will not be fooled. He sniffs at each of these articles and quickly turns away. The only way to successfully fool him is to tie the papers up in a package. He never leaves behind anything that has a string around it. Occasionally the mail is too large for the canine to get into his mouth, and then he is obliged to make two trips. When the train goes by and there is no mail, the dog looks disconsolately after the departing cars, and, gazing down the track to be sure that there is not another train coming, he lowers his tail between his legs and sneaks sorrowingly home.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

FRENCH WOMEN AS GAMBLERS.

The Paris gambling hells are rather busy just now, more particularly those in which women play. A police inspector and his men made two swoops yesterday evening. In one place in the Rue de la Terrasse fifteen demi-mondaines were playing with all their might when the agents of the law entered the room and seized a sum of about £250 which was on the table, as well as the roulette and the dice. A less important seizure was effected in a house in the Rue de Jacquemont, where eighteen females of the fashionable cocotte type were at the tables. One of them remarked to the police that she wished they had put in an appearance on the night before, as they might have hindered her from losing an insignificant matter of £300 or thereabout. In this place about £15 was seized, the women having had time to thrust a good deal of gold and bank notes into their pockets. The proprietresses of the hells are arrested, the others being allowed to go away. The mania for gambling in hells and on the race courses which has been developed of late years among the Paris courtesans from the moquette or troleuse of the streets to the dashing Aspasias of the boudoirs and the Bois, is, according to the best social authorities, to be traced partly to the decline in their ignoble earnings and partly to their desire to kill time which hangs heavily on their hands. We are far from the dazzling demi-mondaines described by the younger Dumas in "The Lady of the Camelias," who, like Anna Deslions, literally flung their gold away to show that they despised it, and who, when playing, were absolutely indifferent to their gains or losses. Nowadays the frail denizens of the Quartier Breda and the Quartier del' Europe play methodically and with a vengeance. In the same way they gamble on the turf, and it is even complained by their admirers that they sink their passion for dress and appear, contrary to all the canons of Parisian millinery, in slovenly waterproofs and ill-fitted boots on the Pelouse of Longchamps or Chantilly, so absorbed are they in their betting speculations.—London Telegraph.

A RABBIT WHIPS A BLACK SNAKE.

The keeper of Springdale Cemetery, just north of Peoria, Ill., while attending to the graves the other day, was attracted by the strange antics of a rabbit. It seemed to be jumping up in the air and acting altogether in a crazy manner. Proceeding to the spot he saw that the rabbit was giving battle to a black snake about five feet in length. The rabbit had a nest near by, and in it were its two young. The serpent was several feet from the nest, and as it tried to approach, the rabbit would jump fiercely on the snake, biting it near the head, and then jump back before the black snake could get it in his coil. When the snake showed a disposition to remain coiled, the rabbit would make a feint and get it to strike, and then, quick as lightning, would jump on the snake's body. The rabbit had apparently lost all fear of the presence of man, as the witness of the strange battle stood within a few feet of it. After a few minutes the snake made up its mind to get away badly worsted, and found safety in a brush-pile into which the rabbit could not penetrate although it made efforts to do so. It is the opinion of the keeper that if the fight had occurred in the open ground where the snake could not have sought concealment, the rabbit would have killed it.—Chicago Tribune.

A SNAKE IN A PIECE OF ICE.

A De Kalb-street lady purchased a lump of crystal ice a few days ago, and placed it in an ice cooler, which was perfectly clean. She added no water, allowing it to melt without assistance. Some time later she drew a glass of the melted ice and was lifting it to her lips, when, from the very centre, a tiny snake reared its diamond head, its scintillating eyes and glistening forked tongue causing a scream of fright to issue from the lady's lips. Fortunately she held on to the glass, and was thus able to prove to the incredulous friends who answered her call the absolute truth of this strange story. The snake was almost pure white, measured an inch and a half in length, was fully developed, and belongs to a species as yet unclassified. How it came into the ice, and how it could live and display such astonishing liveliness in liquid of a temperature so near congelation is a mystery worthy the attention of our local scientists.—Norristown Herald.

A HORSE WORSTED BY A DEER.

An exciting incident occurred at Lake George recently. A party of guests with guides from the Mohican House, made an excursion to Deer's Leap Mountain, some eight or ten miles from Bolton. While they were at luncheon, one of the horses which had been tethered just below, wandered off up a narrow pathway hemmed in one side by a steep cliff, with a ravine some 200 feet deep on the other side. A large buck deer coming in the opposite direction met the horse, and, as there was no room to pass or turn about, he at once began to show signs of hostility, by lowering his horns and making a dash at the horse. The frightened animal began to rear and neigh loudly, and several members of the party reached the cliff above the scene of the disturbance, just in time to see the buck force his antagonist over the edge of the ravine and plunge swiftly down the pathway. The buck was the largest seen in that vicinity for years.

AN ORPHAN SEAL TAMED.

Two weeks ago William Stewart, who lives at Crosby's Beach, found a seal pup about 3 months old on the beach near his place. Mr. Stewart carried the little orphan to his house, about 100 yards away, where it appeared perfectly contented and happy in company with the old Newfoundland dog, receiving the petting and fondling of the children with the same manifestation of joy and appreciation that a young puppy dog would show. Thinking it best to give the little fellow his liberty, Mr. Stewart placed him in the water again, but to his surprise the youngster soon came ashore and followed him to the house, where he remained for a week or more, taking occasional sea baths, but spending the greater part of his time about the door yard. It was thought by some that this was a tame seal that had escaped or got lost, but old fishermen acquainted with the habits of the seal say that this is the nature of any seal pup that has lost its mother; it will follow and remain with anybody or anything that will treat it kindly.—Eastport (Me.) Sentinel.

CHESS.

To Correspondents.

C. SCHUBERT, City.—You have our hearty thanks for kindly forwarding a file of The Columbia Ch. Chronicle; also for commendations, which are duly appreciated.

J. A. CARSON.—Correction and observations noted.

OUR ENIGMA.—Part I was given in Kling and Horwitz's Chess Studies as "White to move and win," the solution occupying twelve moves, beginning thus: 1..R to R 3 +, K to B 7, best; 2..K to Q B 4, P to Kt 6, best; 3..R to R 2 +, K to B 8, best; 4. K to B 3, etc., with the closing observation: "This example is an illustration of the difficulty of playing against two united Pawns so far advanced." Nuova Rivista as No. VIII of a new series of chess studies, R vs. P's, by Sig. Salvioli, repeats the position solved in nine moves, commencing as above. In the last No. (June) of N. R., Sig. S. notes that the same error was repeated on p. 87 of Chess Studies End-games, by Herr Horwitz, 1884. On the contrary, White with the move can not win, only draw, as was demonstrated by Signor Tassinori of Faenza, as far back as 1856. And this discovery received confirmation from Count Guicciardi of Modena. The solution as a draw only requires six moves; we hope our end-game lovers will investigate the position.....Part II arose in play in Vienna. At this point Black was so confident of a draw that he demanded a count of fifty moves; but, on receiving White's next move, found to his amazement that he was summarily beaten.

TWO NOTABLE EVENTS in American chess have come to our knowledge during the past week. First, the establishment of The Columbia Chess Chronicle, this city, by the Columbia C. C. There have been several propositions within two or three years to establish an American chess weekly magazine, which we have never said much about because we couldn't see a fair prospect of their permanence; we didn't believe, nor do we now, that the Am. chess world is a hungered and a thirst for such a publication. But here we believe success is possible—and that for several reasons. It emanates from the metropolis; it is backed by a young but enthusiastic club; it presents within itself ability, spirit and unconventionality; it has no whims, cranks, or fights; it is neat and readable, and cosmopolitan in its news; it is cheap; and its very presence, if it can be kept on for a couple of years, will foster the germs of what desire for it do exist, until they ripen into a real, wide-spread demand to which itself alone will be competent to respond. Success to it. A complete file has been laid on our table by Bro Schubert. $2 a year; address, L. Deride, No. 1 Second avenue, N. Y.....The second important item is the bugle call to arms for a tourney at Wilkesbarre, for the express purpose of the prompt organization of a Pennsylvania State Chess Association, a body bound, as did the Mass. S. A., to spring at once full-grown and panoplied, a Chess Minerva from the head of Jove.....Yea, verily, a third item may not be passed over. The Wilkesbarre C. C., under the head of Field-marshal Sellman, has challenged the Franklin C. C. of Philadelphia to a match of two games by correspondence..... We neither can nor desire to repress our satisfaction at finding another chess writer who has a sense of the fitness of things and of the force and value of etymologies. The leading writer in C. C. C. realizes that there is not nor could be any such word as "problemist;" but that the proper etymological derivative to replace problem composers by a single term is—problematist.

BITS.—July 21st, ult., was the eighth anniversary of the founding of the New Orleans Chess, Checkers and Whist Club. No anniversary celebration has ever yet been held. ... We are glad to hear again of the health and chess vitality of our old friend F. Eugene Brenzinger.....G. Koehler has won the champion's medal of the new Columbia C. C. Preparations are actively on foot for the C. C. C.'s annual handicap.....Chess seems to be pretty well scorched up in this country just now.... Next week completes our sixteenth century of chess numbers. But that does not fully represent the chess age of THE CLIPPER. Our predecessor in this chair had a strange and irrepressible passion for "New Series," and threw out about seventy numbers attained, and commenced with No. 1 again.

FRANKFORT CHESS CONGRESS.—We cull from The Columbia Ch. Mag. the following names of entrants in the greatest tourney hitherto organized under Caissa's standard: Messrs. Alapine, C. v. Bardeleben, Prof. J. Berger, Bird, Blackburne, Burn, Englisch, A. Fritz, H. v. Gottschall, I. Gunsberg, Harmonist, Capt. Mackenzie, Jas. Mason, Metger, Dr. Noa, Louis Paulsen, Emil Schallopp, v. Scheve, Schiffers, Scottlender, Dr. Tarrasch, Taubenhaus, Max Weiss and Zukertort—an array of twenty-four! The King of Chess out of the question, we would fain make it thirty, thus: Freiherr Ignaz v. Kolisch, H. Charlick, Esq., Herren M. Tchigorin and S. Winawere, Senor don Celso Golmayo and Signor Zannoni. At the latest report the leading third stood: First, Mr. Blackburne, 8; second, Herr Berthold Englisch, 7½; third, Curt v. Bardeleben, 7; fourth (tied), Capt. Mackenzie, E. Schallopp, Dr. Zukertort, and Amos Burn, 5; fifth, L. Paulsen, 4½.....We learn from Bohemian that a match between some members of the Parisian Cercle des Echecs and an equal number of the British C. C. was to have been played on July 18, at the latter's rooms. Play called at 2 15, end at 5.30 P. M.; dinner at 8; concert at 11 P. M. .... Also, that the London-St. Petersburg match has been adjourned to Sept. 15, prox.

(c) If Kt P × B, Black would draw with Q to K 8 +; 13..K to B 4, Q to R 5 +, etc. Steinitz introduced the text move to avoid the draw.

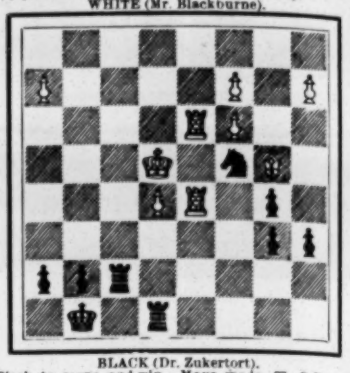
(d) Blackburne vs. Steinitz played 14..Q to R 3 +; we prefer, however, the text move, which secures for Black a small superiority.

(e) We would prefer 18..Q B to K 3.

(*) Worse than useless; Black would have played anyhow his Q R on the K B file.

(f) [We have already an end-game position]:

WHITE (Mr. Blackburne).



BLACK (Dr. Zukertort).

Black to move and win. Move made—27..Q R to B 7. The entry of the Rook practically disposes of any promising resistance. White's next move is comparatively his best, as it limits his loss to one P, for the time being.

(g) To force advance of Q R P, and then attack Q Kt P.

(i) 58..R × P would be good enough.

 We quite disagree with our contemporaries who omit the last half of this game as uninteresting. The time record is unique in the records of chess matches. Mr. Blackburne, even more persistently than in the game given last week, exhausted the time limit, the third hour finding him with but one move lee-way; while Dr. Zukertort played the whole sixty moves in sixty minutes! To his eternal and infinite honor be it added, the Doctor never plays a sneak opening.

MONKEYS OPENING OYSTERS.

So many people have expressed their surprise at hearing that I constantly saw monkeys breaking open oysters with a stone on the islands off South Burmah, that it may be of interest to give a short description of their method of using such a tool. The low-water rocks of the islands of the Mergui Archipelago are covered with oysters, large and small. A monkey, probably macaeus cynomuigus, which infest these islands, prowls about the shore when the tide is low, opening the rock oysters with a stone by striking the base of the upper valves until it dislocates and breaks up. He then extracts the oyster with his finger and thumb occasionally putting his mouth straight to the broken shell. On disturbing them I generally found that they had selected a stone more apparently for convenience in handling than for its value as a hammer, and it was smaller in proportion to what a human being would have selected for a proportionate amount of work. In short, it was usually a stone they could get their fingers round. As the rocks crop up through the low water mud the stone had to be brought up from high water mark, this distance varying from ten to eighty yards. This monkey had chosen the easiest way to open the rock oyster, viz., to dislocate the valve by a blow on the base of the upper one, and to break the shell over the attaching muscle. The gibbon also frequents these islands, but I never saw one of them on the beach.—Nature.

A PLUCKY GIRL KILLS A SNAKE.

Miss R. Brown of Brooklyn and the Misses Bruyn and Robertson of New York are spending the Summer in one of the cottages on the Shawangunk Mountain, Ulster County, near Ellenville, N. Y. While out walking just before sundown, July 29, they ran across a rattlesnake which measured fully four feet in length. The attention of the young ladies was attracted to the reptile by an ominous rattle. The Misses Brown and Robertson took to their heels and the snake showed signs of following. Miss Bruyn saw at a glance that they would get the worst of it if they all ran, so she determined to stand her ground boldly, and she did it like a heroine. The plucky young woman had an Alpine staff in her hands, and, grasping it firmly, and at the same time so she could have full control of it as a weapon of defense, she braced herself and awaited the coming of the rattlesnake. The reptile meant business. So did the plucky New Yorker, and as the slimy thing's head came within arm's reach she whacked it with all her might and main, and she killed it, too. Then, women-like, she fainted. By this time the other young ladies had returned with reinforcements, and Miss Bruyn and the reptile were carried home in triumph.

AN UNREASONABLE CUSTOMER.—"Waiter, take away this beer; it's muddy."

The waiter, without stirring.—"You are deceived, sir. It is the glass which is dirty; the beer is excellent. Taste it."

GRAND REOPENING OF SEASON

Sept. 5, 1887.

EVERYTHING NEW.

Combinations and artists write for dates. The only Vaudeville Theatre in Buffalo. J. W. GERLACH, Business-manager.

A CARD.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

In regard to the circulated report that the ADELPHIA THEATRE in Buffalo is not undergoing repairs for the coming season, is a base falsehood, as the following well-known artists can vouch for, as the Theatre is being completely remodeled from top to bottom, the ceiling beautifully frescoed, elegant new boxes and an entire new stage, with all new scenery and dressing-rooms—in fact, everything comfortable for all who play here. The Management, MESSRS. GERLACH & SWAN, cannot do too much for all who play the house. Contrary to all reports, the house will open for the Fall and Winter season on SEPT. 5, and don't you forget it, and will remain open all the season. It is the old, reliable and only legitimate Variety House in the city. The performers now playing here highly praise the house, the management and the courteous attaches; so don't believe those who are jealous and are evily disposed. The ADELPHIA is still here, and is running on a solid basis. N. B. SHIVER, THORPE AND CASTELLAT, WESLEY BROTHERS, PRESS ELDRIDGE, LOVE SISTERS, NELSON CURRY, TED SKLETTE.
